Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Citizens Should Attend City Budget Hearing on June 20

WEDNESDAY morning, June 20, at 10 o'clock, a public hearing on the city budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1923, and ending June 30, 1924, will be held at the city hall.

This hearing should be attended by as many citizens as are able to be there. Our tax levy for this coming year will be based on the amount of the budget.

The refund of money paid out for Glendale Verdugo Park and the airport will, without doubt, be used towards the reduction of the tax levy. With a council pledged to the lowering of taxes we are quite sure we will not have a repetition of the experience of last year and we may look for a tax in line with the surrounding district.

ON account of the inability of the residents of the south end to agree on a location for the new depot the city council at its last meeting decided to leave the matter of location for the Southern Pacific to decide.

This probably means that the depot will be located at Eulalia street which was the location originally chosen by it.

By request of a committee from the chamber of commerce the railroad officials agreed to change the location if arrangements could be made. However, when it was found that the change would mean considerable cost to the district and probably some delay, enough opposition appeared to defeat the change.

* * *

NEXT Wednesday, or Thursday, something definite will probably be known regarding sewers. The Los Angeles city council will tell us at that time what we may count on.

At the present time it looks very much as if Los Angeles would drive a hard bargain, for it holds the whip hand. We can see no good reason why this should be true, for several times members of that council have mentioned fraternal feeling for us. Word now comes that the high school situation as regards Eagle Rock, is to be brought into the discussion as one of the deciding issues.

According to figures given in the annual report for the year ending June 30, 1922, of the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county, the cost of maintenance for Glendale high school amounts to $161.08 per student per school year and this does not include anything for interest money on bonds. The actual cost per pupil for teachers in this report is given at $113.23 per school year.

These figures to the layman may seem high, but the fact remains that in maintenance cost Glendale high is the lowest in the county, being lower than the city of Los Angeles, which, on account of its larger system, should be the lowest. In business the larger the volume the lower the percentage of overhead.

There is no reason why this should not also apply to the schools.

According to County Superintendent Koeppel, all we can count on as apportionments would be $21 from the state and $55 from the county, per student, based on the average attendance. All pupils that Glendale accepts from outside of the district will cost the district approximately $85.

* * *

IN the case of Eagle Rock it is estimated that they would probably have around two hundred students that would attend Glendale high if permitted. This would cost the district $17,000 more than the county and state would allow.

We hardly think in the face of things that Los Angeles would insist on such a proposition and use it as a club to refuse us our sewer, especially so when one considers that by granting us our request their gain is as great as ours.

ATHLETIC CLUB TO PLAY SUNDAY

The Glendale Athletic Club will meet the San Gabriel Baseball team tomorrow afternoon at Verdugo Park. West Aggerson, former Glendale High school star pitcher, will pitch and he is expected to whirl the same stuff that defeated Pasadena so bad last Sunday. The San Gabriel team have a splendid record and the Athletic Club is expecting a real hot battle. Game will be called at 2:30. Verdugo Park is located on Verdugo road in the woodlands and can be reached by the Glendale-Montrose car.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Zev won the classic Belmont stakes today at a mile and three furlongs from a fleet field of seven three-year-olds.

COUNCIL'S NEW PLAN FOR DEPOT

Decides to Pay $8,500 on Lots at Cerritos Avenue

NO ASSESSMENT ZONE

Balance to Be Put Up by Interested Property Owners

In a reversal of its former action, the Glendale city council decided, at a special meeting held in city hall at 9 o'clock this morning, to purchase the two lots at the foot of Cerritos avenue for street purposes in order that the new $85,000 Southern Pacific depot may be located at that point, the cost to the city for this property not to exceed $8500. This sum of money, to cover the purchase price, would come out of the general fund of the city. The matter will be further considered at a special meeting to be held at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, June 11.

In connection with the matter the following official action was taken:

On motion of Councilman Hall, seconded by Councilman Horn, the city attorney was instructed to prepare a resolution for submission at a special meeting to be held June 11, at 1 o'clock, for the purchase of property described as follows: Lots 14 and 15, block 5, tract No. 910, city of Glendale, from George T. Stewart, at a price not to exceed $8500.

The vote on this motion was as follows: Ayes—Hall, Horn and Davis; noes—Robinson; absent, Kimlin.

It is understood that the money in excess of $8500 for the purchase of this property will be raised by popular subscription among the property owners of the southern part of the city.

DINNER FOR ALL YOUNG WOMEN OF GLENDALE

Community Center Seeks to Find Recreation Needs

As a means of promoting further recreation activities, Glendale's Community Center is inviting thru the newspapers, by word of mouth and through various oragnizations all women in the city, particularly young women, to a supper to be served Thursday evening at 6:30 at the Tuesday Afternoon club by the non-section members of that organization at 75 cents per plate to ascertain, if possible, the forms of amusement most desired. These young women have been asked to indicate what form of amusement they most desire of the following list: Swimming, tennis, dramatics, glee club work, picnics, horseback riding, dancing, week-end trips. If the responses justify, Community Service will undertake to organize all these social activities.

After Thursday night's supper the guests will probably be invited to attend another supper to which all the young men of the city will be invited to perfect arrangements for any or all of the amusements desired.

Reservations should be made as early as possible at the chamber of commerce, where Community Service has its headquarters.

CENTRAL P.-T. A. ASKS AID FOR BRIDGE AT WASH

At a meeting of directors of the chamber of commerce held Friday night a report of the membership drive was submitted to Mr. S. P. Morris, assistant manager.

A letter from the P.-T. A. of the Central avenue school urging action to secure a bridge across the wash at that street was read, discussed and referred to the highway and bridges committee, which has been at work on the project. Secretary Sanders was requested to answer the P.-T. A. and to write Supervisor Wright concerning the matter.

The board voted to invite to its banquet to be held June 11 Mayor Robinson and the members of the city council, City Attorney Ray Morrow and Chief of Police Fraser.

CONSUMERS' TEST COUNT COMPLETED BY MONDAY NIGHT

The vote was so heavy in the Consumers' Contest on the closing day last Thursday that it has kept the contest department working overtime on the count. However, the count will be completed by Monday and the winners will be announced in Monday's paper.

Some surprises were sprung at the last moment, and one or two of the contestants who had been away behind came up strong and will be in the list of prize winners.

Watch Monday's Glendale Daily Press for the full count. All contestants are requested to see the contest editor, W. L. Taylor, at the Press office, as soon as posible as we have something of interest for each contestant.

GLENDALE TO PLAY VAN NUYS

Local Team of Valley League Returns to Home Lot

BACK IN GOOD FORM

New Material Has Been Found Ready to Enter the Line-up

Glendale takes on the Van Nuys club tomorrow on the home lot at Park avenue and San Fernando road in the second game of the second round of the Valley league. Manager Heidler says he expects to be in great shape for it. They had their big "off" day last Sunday and with hard workouts all week a good brand of baseball is looked for tomorrow.

Either Slim Harris or Manager Walt will do the mound duty for the locals with either Charlie Metten or Les Taylor on the mound for Van Nuys. A large squad of new material has been working out at the lot and have shown up great, and according to Manager Heidler the regular line-up will have to step lively and play ball or else play the bench as the team is out for first place trophies and cannot afford to lose another ball game in this league. The grounds are being put in tip top condition for this contest and a number of seats erected to handle the crowd.

Better come out and help yell the team back to winning form. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

CANADIAN RUM RUNNERS WELL ORGANIZED

Enlarge Profits by Smuggling Silks and Tobacco from the U. S.

By Ç. K. M'CALEB
British United Press Correspondent
(Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

PORT COVINGTON, N. Y., June 9.—Canadian bootleggers are obtaining liquor for United States consumption at less than the price charged by the Quebec Liquor commission, which is supposed to control all whisky sold in that province.

Furthermore, they are enlarging their profit by smuggling silks and tobacco into Canada, on their return trips after they have carried booze cargoes over the line into New York state.

I have just concluded a trip along 60 miles of the Canadian border. Near Fort Covington, as in the vicinity of every border town are warehouses supplying liquor to the bootleggers. The Quebec commissioner's price for whiskey is in the neighborhood of $44 a case, sold by the quart. But the prevailing price in this vicinity today is as low as $30 a case for rye and $32 for Scotch.

$500,000 PROPERTY IS SOLD

Result of Sudden Interest in Central Avenue Development

99 YEAR LEASE SIGNED

Charles B. Guthrie Announces Big Building at Broadway Corner

Representing a total of investments amounting to more than one-half million dollars, a series of property sales have been completed on Central avenue within the last few days, indicating a sudden influx of interest in the business property offered on Central avenue.

Announcement was made this morning of the closing of a 99-year lease of the northwest corner of Broadway and Central to Charles B. Guthrie, realtor of West Broadway.

Plans for a five-story building are underway, to be constructed at this site, which was formerly the home of Edgar L. Robinson. Mr. Robinson's residence is to be removed at once and one story of the building will be erected, with a foundation to carry the additional four stories.

The architectural drawing of the proposed building is under way at the offices of Noernberg & Johnson, who made the plans for the Los Angeles railway building in Los Angeles and for the beautiful residence of Charles B. Guthrie, on Grand View.

Negotiations are now under way for the upper stories of the building. It has not been decided whether these will be finished for apartments or for club or lodge purposes.

In addition to this deal the Charles B. Guthrie company has been represented in several other important Central avenue deals, proving, according to Mr. Guthrie, that his prediction as to the business prospects of Central avenue, made three years ago, is being realized.

The Newby property, on the northwest corner of Ivy and Central, offering a 100-foot frontage on Central and a depth of 150 feet, was sold to Mr. Metcalf of Metcalf & Ryan of Los Angeles. A fine brick block is contemplated for this corner.

Charles B. Guthrie purchased a 50-foot lot adjoining this property and sold a lot 150 feet north of Broadway, on the west side of Central, owned by Fred A. Sweat, to W. R. Newport. The lot, measuring 106x188 feet on the east side of Central, near Broadway, owned by A. B. Holt, was sold to M. V. Blenkiron. The northwest corner of Harvard and Central, 50x150 feet, was sold to Lewis Russell.

These investments, according to Mr. Guthrie, represent over one-half million dollars, and do not include more than $100,000 in transactions completed in the past 60 days through the Charles B. Guthrie office.

STATE HIGHWAY WIDENING WINS APPROVAL

La Crescenta Improvement Association Goes on Record

LA CRSCENTA, June 9.—In the absence of C. E. Culberson the president of the La Crescenta Improvement association, Thursday evening's meeting was presided over by Vice-President Harvey S. Bissell. Besides the report of various commitees one of the most important issues of the evening's session was the subject of widening the state highway, which project received the unanimous endorsement of the association. Members of the Tujunga, Montrose and San Fernando chambers of commerce were present and a permanent committee was appointed and plans for the campaign will be formed. Wallace M. Morgan of Tujunga was made chairman of the committee and Mark S. Collins secretary. The subject of forming a fire district to include the Crescenta school district was discussed and a committee appointed to take the matter up with the board of supervisors.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEARS COMPLETION

Work Is Progressing Satisfactorily, Says Rev. Tinning

The construction work of the new Presbyterian church at the corner of Harvard and Louise streets is progressing most satisfactorily, states Rev. Louis Tinning, the assistant pastor of the church. The heavy steel trusses of the main auditorium are all in place and the roofing is making such progress that the entire building will soon be enclosed. Except for the work on the tower the brick work is nearly completed.

The stone work at the main entrance has reached such a stage of completion that something of their artistic appearance when completed may already be seen.

The Sunday school department is entirely enclosed and this part of the building has been fully plastered. The interior finishing will soon begin. Plans are being made to open the Sunday school department for regular Sunday school work early in September. Plans are under way for the organization of classes, of several grades, in religious education to be held five days each week. When the entire building is completed the Sunday school department will accommodate more than two thousand pupils and will be one of the most complete Sunday school plants in Southern California.

MERCHANTS PLUS GLENDALE DAILY PRESS PRESENT NEW INDUCEMENTS TO CONCENTRATE

Three Sides to the Triangle of Trade Required to Make Day of Purchase a Success; Summer Days Make Good Prices for the Cents-ful Dollar of Glendale Folks

The third Monday shopping day of the store-to-store merchants plus Glendale Daily Press opens June 11, next Monday.

In increasing volume the people of Glendale have convinced the merchants of the city and the Glendale Daily Press that they have accepted Monday as their big shopping day.

It is gratifying to the Glendale Daily Press to be the medium of joining the merchants in trade with their patrons.

The union in co-operation for better goods, better prices, better relations, in Glendale, will continue so long as the three sides of the trade triangle are evenly adjusted, demand meeting supply and both united and firmly bound by publicity. Through the shopping section there are little stores, comment by the merchants. This is part of that publicity in the service of both consumer and merchant.

Space given for publicity is just as valuable as space sold for advertising. While it produces no cash return it does yield a large revenue in good will. To secure that good will it is given.

When you buy, no matter what, on Monday, from the merchants advertising today in the shopping section, or in any part of the Glendale Daily Press, you are bringing to us in the good will of the merchants, to be shown in continuation of advertising in this shopping Monday crusade.

Shopping, however, is not a matter of buying in its strictest interpretation. Shopping is three-quarters investigation of stores, their prices and their goods and their services. All these being equal, the matter of purchasing and consideration of purchases, Monday, or during the week, concludes the day's shopping.

For, not all the sales from Shopping Monday are made on Monday. The merchants who have persisted in the crusade to centralize on Monday as shopping day, report an increased volume of trade during the week that follows.

This is quite as satisfactory to the merchants as direct Monday purchases.

This is the time of year to buy in Glendale. Trade has slackened under the summer rush for the beaches, for the long tour out of town, for vacations. The streets are not so well filled.

When trade lags, merchants make prices to meet and stimulate decreased demand.

The man or woman who has taught his or her dollars to have the maximum of cents can these days bring home goods that would make the dollar of yesterday look like four bits as a purveyor to the household.

In the shopping section, and throughout the Glendale Daily Press today, you will find bargains not there last week.

And, take the shopping section of the Glendale Daily Press with you when you go shopping Monday, and in this way you will have it ready to check off what you want to look at and avoid confusion.

Incidentally, if you do, you will convince the merchants that the Glendale Daily Press has maintained its side of this trade triangle of demand--supply—publicity.

SUGGESTION FOR SHOPPING MONDAY AMONG THE STORES

Listen, Mrs. Shopper!

Now that so many merchants are joining in this Monday shopping campaign, and you may become a little confused over the many, many offers that are made in today's shopping section, here's a little suggestion that may prove helpful, although it doesn't come from Helpful Henry.

Shoppers nearly always carry large bags with them, and so on Monday when starting out to make a tour of the stores just tuck the Saturday Shopping News section of the Press into your bag and you'll find it a time saver and a guide that will make your "dollars have more cents."

Long Beach Band to Arrive Tonight

At 7:30 o'clock tonight a special Pacific Electric car will arrive in Glendale carrying the Long Beach band, S. F. DuRee, superintendent of recreation, and L. D. Fry, director of community singing, who will put on the inter-community program at the high school auditorium under the auspices of Glendale Community Service. The program will be open to the public and there will be no admission charge.

The visitors will be met at Harvard and Brand by Mayor Spencer Robinson, V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community Service, and A. L. Baird, chairman of the music committee, together with a delegation of Boy Scouts. The members of Troop No. 3 will act as ushers for the evening.

The Long Beach band is one of the best known in Southern California and a real treat is in store for those attending.

WET FORCES TO START DRIVES FOR LIQUOR

Six States to Be the Center of Activity for Repeal

WASHINGTON, June 9.—"Wet" drives will be started at once in six additional states, in an effort to force repeal of state enforcement laws, officials of the association against the prohibition amendment, announced today.

Rhode Island, Tennessee, California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Ohio will be made the immediate objectives of the repeal campaign which is preliminary to a nation-wide anti-prohibition movement in 1924, it was stated at the office of Captain W. H. Slayton, head of the association.

At the same time efforts will be made to obtain a membership that will give the wets a voice in politics as strong as that of the Anti-Saloon league.

SNEAK THIEF IS HELD FOR TRIAL

Bennett Sutter, who is accused of stealing a check protector and a typewriter from the office of W. J. Curren, builder, of West Broadway, and an adding machine from the office of the Oakmont Country club, a short time ago, had his preliminary hearing before Judge Lowe at 10 o'clock this morning. He was held to appear before the superior court. His bail was fixed at $6000 cash and $12,000 property bond, in default of which he was sent to the county jail.

BOY SCOUTS CAMP TO BE BEST IN U.S.

To Be the Finest in Country, Frank C. Ayars Announces

ROY KENT HONORED

Located in Angelus National Forest Near Arrowhead

Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district are to have one of the finest summer camps in the United States, according to an official announcement made this morning by Frank C. Ayars, chairman of the committee on camping.

"On May 26 a party of 11 men, representing the whole district, made a special trip to Lake Arrowhead for the purpose of locating a suitable site for the summer camp," said Mr. Ayars, "and after looking over several prospective pieces of land they not only found a suitable site, but one most ideal with beautiful surroundings.

"We named the site in honor of Roy L. Kent, who has devoted a great deal of time, energy and money toward putting Scouting on a firm footing in the Verdugo Hills district."

Camp Royl-Kent is situated in the Angelus national forest, 3½ miles from Lake Arrowhead, where Hook creek joins Bear creek. The camp is surrounded by the towering pine, fir, maple and alder trees. Special permission has been granted to the Verdugo Hills district council by the United States Forestry Service for the use of the campsite.

According to Mr. Ayars this year a new type of summer camp will be run, called a Co-operative Troop Camp, which invests a great deal more freedom in the individual troops and places more responsibility on the Scoutmaster. This year each troop will select a place within the confines of Camp Royl-Kent for its own troop camp, which will be under the personal leadership of its own Scoutmaster.

However, general supervision, camp equipment, campsite, shelter, first aid supplies, and commissary equipment are to be furnished by the Verdugo Hills district council.

Scout Executive Harold F. Benner will be the resident manager of the camp. Mr. Benner has had twelve years' experience in various Boy Scout camps and is well qualified to take charge of the administrative end of the camp.

This year the camp will be run in four periods from June 27th to July 30th. The first period is from June 27 to June 30 and will be known as a Patrol Leaders' Conference camp. The second period is from June 30 to July 9. Only Glendale Scouts will go at this time. The third period from July 10 to July 19 will be reserved for Burbank Scouts.

The fourth period will be reserved exclusively for Tujunga, La Crescenta and Eagle Rock Scouts, from July 21 to July 30. The cost of the ten day camps will only be $12, which is 50 cents less than last year's camp. All scouts are urged to get their applications in to the Scoutmasters as soon as possible. The camp will accommodate 50 Scouts at a time so that means that the first fifty boys to get in their application for reservation will be assured a place.

CITY RECORDS TO BE PLACED IN CRYPT

Dedication of the Ground at Grand View on Sunday

The following Glendale city documents will be placed in the historical crypt, ground for which will be broken at Grand View cemetery Sunday afternoon: The annual report of the city of Glendale together with the supplementary report of the different departments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, which was published under the direction of the board of trustees of the city; the financial statement of the city of Glendale for the year ending June 30, 1921; a map of the city of Glendale, and the proposed general budget for the year 1923 and 1924.

SHELBY IS TRYING TO OBEY ITS POLICE

Wants to Be Very Nice and Lawful for the Big Fight

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

SHELBY, Mont., June 9.—Shelby was doing her best today to be nice and lawful so that Jack Dempsey may box Tommy Gibbons here July 4.

The little oil town, which jumped into prominence when it was picked as the site for the heavyweight battle and which later became famous for a revival of the old frontier days, has nothing more interesting to talk about now than chorus girls of a burlesque show who go about the alkali dusted streets in knickerbockers and silk stockings.

"That's only ads," the cowpunchers in front of the one-half of one per cent cafes remarked as the girls paraded.

The burlesque advertised as "a girly show" is to open Sunday night in a big tent back of the main street and the tickets are selling fast. Mayor Jim Johnson, six feet three and 243 pounds, a cow-puncher for 33 years, until he hit oil to become wealthy, was back today for a visit. He told the boys there was no fooling, they had to be good.

Hard-boiled cowboys and grizzled oil drillers, accustomed to doing things their way, couldn't see how it was anybody's business how Shelby operated.

"Turk," the town's leading bartender, was particularly irate.

"In the old days we used to rope and hoss them meddlers," Turk said. "It wasn't so long ago that an agent headed in to do a little fussin'. Outside the cars was a bunch of punchers with the ropes ready to hoss him and he was on the train again when she rolled out. I believe in hossin'."

While all the hordes of strangers coming in are looking mostly for entertainment, the natives are more intent on making money and singing the praises of Tom Gibbons, the challenger. There is no doubt that this is a Gibbons town. They look upon him as a sure winner.

Gibbons had another quiet day yesterday. He did seven miles on the road and then went out shooting prairie dogs in the afternoon. He is better with his fists, however, than with a rifle.

The building boom is continuing. There were buildings today on empty lots of yesterday and there will be others day by day. The arena is being pushed with almost unbelievable speed and the tickets are going rapidly.

Night High Team Defeats City Folks

The night school team defeated the city employes at the baseball game played last night on the high school grounds under the Community Service schedule by a score of 8 to 7. There will be a double game Monday night, the first beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The night school team will play the American Legion and the Newton Electric team will play the Ford team.

MOSQUITO FLEET RUNS RUM INTO DETROIT

65,000 Pints of Beer Is Smuggled Into City Every 24 Hours

[By Associated Press]

DETROIT, June 9.—A mosquito fleet of from 30 to 50 small boats is supplying Detroit and its suburbs with the equivalent of between 50,000 and 65,000 pint bottles of Canadian beer every 24 hours. The illicit beverage is smuggled across the Detroit river in barrels, kegs and bottles.

The supply of beer transported by the miniature rum fleet is supplemenetd by occasional carload shipments which come into the United States from Canada by way of the railroad under the river, according to the rum runners. They claim that one of the biggest and wealthiest operators on the Canadian side uses the tunnel to get the beer across the border.

THE 'WILL TO WIN' MAKES THE WINNER

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 9 (United Press).—No factor on the field of sport plays such a big part in making winning teams and individuals as the "will to win."

"A team that will not be beaten, cannot be beaten," hung on the walls of the Princeton clubhouse last fall, and it inspired the Princeton football team to go through a glorious season to a championship.

There may have been better teams in the east last year than the Tigers, but there were none with more spirit and more of the will to win.

The same can be applied to Harry Greb, the former American light heavyweight champion. Boxing experts say it is his "crazy style" that enables him to beat middleweights, light heavyweights and heavyweights.

Greb cultivated his "crazy style" because he had the will to win and he hadn't the qualifications to become successful in orthodox ways.

In the sensational rush of the Philadelphia Athletics toward the pennant in the American league this spring, the most recent example of the will to win has been provided.

The Athletics were a good, young ball club last season, but they lacked the spirit and the will to win. Wise old Connie Mack during the off season convinced his youngsters they could win and they went out to do it.

There is nothing as hard to beat as a young ball club which thinks it can win.

The Boston Braves of 1914 and the Cincinnati Reds of 1919 are examples.

* * *

While the Athletics are looked upon in seven American league cities as a dangerous contender, in Philadelphia they are reaching for the pennant.

Philadelphia is baseball crazy. It is like Cincinnati of 1919 and Cleveland of 1920. The Athletics are looked upon as a city institution and the support of the public will not take any spirit away from the club.

The Giants and the Yankees have no such spirit behind them. New Yorkers don't care much who wins as long as they see a good ball game. The Yanks sometimes become influenced by that atmosphere, while the Giants apparently hear nothing but the voice in the dugout.

FLOODS THREATEN WICHITA; WORST IN HISTORY

[By Associated Press]

WICHITA, Kan., June 9.—Wichita today was facing one of the worst floods in the history of the city. More than five inches of rain fell here during the past 24 hours. Not since 1904, when the city was partly inundated, has anything similar to present conditions been experienced.

BURGLARS HAVE TROUBLES JUST LIKE FOLKS

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, June 9.—A burglar caught by the leg by August Schwelnus and held dangling from a second story window drew a revolver and shot loose his captor's hands and crashed to the sidewalk unhurt, early today. He ran away.

Mrs. Anna Norton, 73, and a grandmocher of nine children, boxed the ears of a burglar whom she found in her home last night and said afterward her only regret was that she did not have an opportunity to spank him.

Bulldog Winner of Blue Ribbon as Ugliest Entry in Jersey City Children's Pet Show

Jersey City's department of parks sponsored one of the most novel exhibitions ever held. It was a show in which the children of that city entered their pets, which ranged from chickens, dogs and cats to turtles, snakes and tadpoles. The above photograph shows Jack Mason, 12 years old, and his English bulldog, Jack. Jack didn't belong to any particular class, but the judges finally decided that the Mason youngster's pet was unqualifiedly the ugliest at the show, and pinned a blue ribbon on him. Both Jacks were thoroughly satisfied.

The Once Over

BY H. I. PHILLIPS

PLANTING THE GRASS PLOT

This is the time of year when the Suburban Dweller spends his evenings reading "How to Plant a Lawn" and "What to Do Till the Grass Comes."

* * *

It is the season of the year when the grass plot begins to thicken.

* * *

Until a man plants his own lawn he has no idea what a complicated thing grass is. The average man thinks of grass as something the woods are full of. He knows it is green, that if he sits in it he'll get ants on his new suit, and that cows eat it (the grass, not the ants or the suit).

* * *

What he doesn't know until he starts raising a little lawn of his own is that there are nearly as many colors to grass as there are in ladies' dress goods, that there are considerably more than 57 types and designs of grass, and that the larger seed-houses now carry lawn samples in show cases so a grass fancier can walk right up to the grass department and pick out exactly what he wants.

* * *

"What can I do for you?" asks the clerk at the grass counter.

"I want to see something in lawns," says the customer.

"Just what would you like to see in lawns?" asks the clerk.

"I dunno; what have you got?" spars the customer.

"Just a minute and I'll look and see," says the clerk, going over to the sample lawns and returning with the information: "All we have in lawns today are grasshoppers, but in another day there'll be worms and everything in 'em."

"You don't get the idea," argues the customer. "I mean, what lawns have you in stock that I can see?"

"Oh, pardon me," replies the grass clerk, taking a spray of hay out of his forelock. "Step over to the sample department and I'll show you. We have the loveliest line of grass this season I've ever handled * * * and in the most exquisite shades and textures."

* * *

"Just what material do you wish?" asks the grass clerk.

"What kind of a lawn do you think I'd look best on?" you question.

"I ain't never seen you on no lawn and it's hard to tell," says the clerk.

"If you've got an hour or so, step up the street and I'll get into a few lawns so you can decide which kind becomes my complexion," you suggest.

"Come on, now" urges the clerk; "I ain't got all day. What size do you take?"

"Does grass come in sizes?" you ask.

"Certainly. There is the thin-bladed grass, the fat grass, the tall grass, short grass, stylish-stout grass, thick grass, and thin grass. It all depends on what you're going to use it for."

"What do you think I'm going to use grass for?" you demand, indignantly.

"You can plant it, eat it or take it like snuff," replies the clerk. "Now, lemme show you a few more samples that have just come in."

* * *

But by this time the customer has decided the grass problem is too intricate. He leaves the store and goes across the street and buys some easier game like Mah Jong.

REPUBLICANS TO FORM HARDING PLATFORM

Broad, Definite Program for Second Term

BY LAWRENCE MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1923, by the United Press).

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The republican party is shaping a broad and definite program for President Harding's second term and will offer it to the country as the principal reason Mr. Harding should be re-elected.

It will be embodied in the republican platform for the 1924 campaign. Before that it will be outlined in a general way to republican workers throughout the country to spur them to the effort which republican leaders candidly admit will be needed to win.

There is no question of Mr. Harding's renomination. But party chiefs are cautioning against overconfidence as to his re-election and in his coming conference with state leaders, John T. Adams, republican national chairman will stress the need of three things. These are:

1—Complete harmony within the party, locally and nationally.

2—Immediate launching of a campaign of organization in every political sub-division in the country.

3—Close watching and appraisal of public sentiment, with reports on the trends of public thought to national leaders.

The republican campaign of 1924 will be concentrated among farmers.

They must be kept from deserting to the democrats or to a third party, republican strategists believe.

1—Railroad rate reductions, particularly as they effect the farmers. These rate reductions already forecast by high railroad earnings, probably will be withheld until next spring or summer, to make them more effective in the campaign.

2—Tax reductions. This will be the appeal to business and to the voter generally. It is to center on the income tax.

3—Revision of the immigration law to insure continued protection of American labor. This will be the appeal to labor.

4—A second arms conference to reduce still further the causes of war by preventing a new armament race in submarines and air craft.

5—A world court separate from the league of nations in furtherance of the Harding association of nations idea.

6—A "prosperity program" based on united action by capital, labor and the government in eliminating causes of friction and in getting foreign markets to keep American mills humming.

7—A government operated merchant marine that will develop trade, particular attention being paid to South American trade.

Prohibition and its enforcement have no place in the program at present. Republican leaders say it is not a question for them but the party is on record as unitedly dry and will simply reaffirm its position.

LEFT WITH GAS STOVE; DIVORCED

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—Not only did his wife run away with another man, Wilford J. Holtz testified in divorce court, but she took the kitchen stove with her. Judge Summerfield ruled that this conclusively proved she had transferred her affections, and granted the divorce.

DIED AT 102 YEARS

OMAHA, Nebr., June 9.—Miss Anna Rapp, 102 years old, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, at Aurora, Neb., according to a special dispatch.

MT. WHITNEY TO BE OBJECTIVE OF TOUR

Dr. J. E. Eckles and Dr. J. C. Livingston to Make Trip

Mt. Whitney, standing at an elevation of 9000 feet, is the destination of Dr. J. E. Eckles and Dr. J. C. Livingston, pastor of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church, who left Glendale today for a week's outing.

Dr. Eckles says that they have brought out their army blankets and shoes and are going far from the haunts of man, where trout is plentiful and there is nothing to do but fish. They will motor to Kernville, and will ride horseback from there to the top or Mt. Whitney, taking pack animals with them with a load of provisions.

It is expected that the journey to the top of Mt. Whitney will take two or three days, and suitable preparations have been made to add the enjoyment of the trip. Mt. Whitney, which claims the highest altitude of any mountain in the United States, offers a beauty of scenery unsurpassed, and is less frequented than many other resorts, due to its high elevation. Cold nights all the year around make the army blanket a welcome partner on the trip.

"We expect to catch our limit every day," said Dr. Eckles. "There won't be any of that clambering over rocks. A person can fish in this stream with a sapling and eight feet of string—no wheel or other tackle necessary. A person has to be quick, though, to catch them."

Dr. Eckles refused to commit himself as to the possibility of bringing some of his catch down with him, intimating that he and Dr. Livingston were pretty fond of the finny tribe as an outdoor diet.

FLOOD RAGES IN VOLGA

STOCKHOLM, June 9.—Russian correspondents of the Stockholm Tidningen report that nearly 400 persons have been drowned and 70,000 rendered homeless by floods in the lower Volga region.

WEEK END FILMS AT THE GLENDALE

Vaudeville and "Footlight Ranger" Tonight; "Backone" Sunday

Besides the regular vaudeville, "The Footlight Ranger" will be shown tonight at the Glendale Theater.

Imagine a strange man wandering backstage during the rehearsal of a musical comedy. The grimaces of the chorus, the mocking of the comedian, the unaccustomed lights, the loud voice of the stage manager as he orders the newcomer thrown from the theater. These are typical of the reception given to the leading character in "The Footlight Ranger," a Fox production starring Charles Jones at the Glendale Theater, which begins a one-day run tonight. The cast includes Fritzi Brunette.

The story contains a great deal of comedy with a background of dramatic action and romantic adventure. The thread of human interest was carefully preserved.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM

Patrons of the Glendale Theater will soon have the opportunity of seeing Alfred Lunt, who has the reputation of being the handsomest actor in America. Lunt, famous for the last five years in legitimate work, will appear as the hero in "Backbone," the Distinctive Pictures' production of Clarence Budington Kelland's celebrated story, released by Goldwyn, which will be seen at that theater for three days, beginning Sunday.

Alfred Lunt became famous overnight for his creation of the title part in Booth Tarkington's Broadway success, "Clarence." He is twenty-eight years old, six feet, two inches tall, broad-shouldered and dark. He has been on the stage twelve years, but "Backbone" is his first venture into filmland.

Lunt was born in Wisconsin, but went to Finland with his mother when he was fifteen years old. There he took part in many theatrical ventures. In the winters he came back to the United States to attend Carrol College, where he was noted as an actor, stage manager and designer of costumes and scenery for all of the college performances.

CAN'T JILT HIM WITHOUT PAYING

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Manuel Herrick, former representative from Oklahoma, who some months ago aired on the floor of the house some of his experiences in courtship, added another chapter to the story today by filing a breach of promise suit against his former secretary, Miss Ethlyn Chrane. He asks for $50,000 damages.

It was on a complaint that he had annoyed Miss Chrane on the street that Herrick recently paid a police court fine of $5. As on that occasion, he appeared today as his own counsel and told the court that Miss Chrane "in the presence of competent witnesses" had promised to marry him.

DRAMA SECTION GIVES DINNER DANCE

Mrs. R. E. Chase Acts as Toastmistress at Delightful Affair

Members of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club entertained their husbands and guests with a dinner-dance last night in the ballroom of the clubhouse as its closing social event before the summer months. Reservations had been made for 60 at the dinner, which was served by the ways and means committee, under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman. The tables were gaily decorated with bowls of nasturtiums.

Mrs. R. E. Chase, who founded the section three years ago and has served as curator since that time, acted as toastmistress. She thanked the members for the loyal support extended to her in the work of the section and gave a resume of what the section had accomplished. Mrs. Chase then gave a toast to the men, which was responded to by Dr. Chase, who gave a toast to the ladies. Other toasts were proposed by A. L. Ferguson, Ray Galvin, Mr. Barker, Albert Pearce, Mr. Nash, Jr., and Dwight Stephenson. A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Montgomery and her committee for the delicious dinner served.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, past president of the club, gave a beautiful talk on what the drama section had meant to the club. Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the club, also gave a toast to the husbands and to the section, thanking them for their work and co-operation during the past year.

Mrs. Chase then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Max Green, curator-elect, who responded with an appropriate speech, expressing her desire to "carry on" the work begun by Mrs. Chase, who will act as dramatic instructor of the section next year.

After dinner the hall was cleared for dancing, which continued until midnight. Music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra.

High Teachers' Club Has Beach Picnic

The final meeting of the school year of the High School Teachers' club took the form of a picnic at Santa Monica. Members left the school Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock by auto and reached the beach city early enough for some games before the picnic supper was served at which covers were laid for about 75. It was followed by a business session at which the nominating committee made its report and officers were elected as follows:

President, Normal Hayhurst; vice president, Ross V. Miller; recording secretary, Miss Jennie Freeman, treasurer, Mrs. Robert Kolts.

Miss Helen Hairgrove was made chairman of the social committee and Bert Rolf of the education committee. It was one of the pleasantest meetings the club has held.

VESUVIUS ERUPTING

[By Associated Press]

NAPLES, June 9.—Vesuvius, which recently has given signs of renewed activity, is again in eruption with incandescent lava, stones, cinders and smoke being thrown up in a column which frequently reaches several hundred feet.

The phenomenon is a recurrent one, coming every few years. The lava which is ejected by the volcano gradually forms a cone, often rising to hundreds of feet around the crater and obstructing the free flow of the smoke and gases until the internal pressure rises to such a point that it disrupts the cone.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP TO BE MADE READY

Rex C. Kelley, local Y. M. C. A. secretary, and G. Edwin Murphy, Paul Edmonds and Arlin McCormick left Glendale this morning for Catalina Island, where they will set up camp for the Y. M. C. A. boys. The Glendale contingent will meet a group from Pasadena at Wilmington and will go to the island to make preliminary preparations for the summer camp, which will open the middle of the month.

The camp for the older high school boys opens June 18 and will be open for them until June 28. As Glendale high does not close until June 22 a group is planning to leave from here on June 23 to spend the remaining five days there. Boys from 12 to 15 years of age will go to the camp for eleven days, beginning on June 30.

Mr. Kelley states that the camp accommodations have been enlarged from 104 to 119 and that reservations have already been made for that number from the Glendale district. However, he states that arrangements will either be made to further enlarge the camp or to have the camp open a later date in order to accommodate all the boys who care to take in this splendid vacation trip.

July 4 will be the big day at camp. In the morning there will be the major and minor league baseball games. In the afternoon Warren S. Slater, physical director of the Pasadena Y. M. C. A. will direct the boys in the staging of a circus. A large quantity of fire works has been ordered and will be shot off in the evening.

TEA ROOM IS POPULAR PLACE

The Harriett Mae Tea Room, corner Maryland and Harvard, is the mecca these warm days for many dinner parties, which would indicate that the many of the housewives have become convinced that it is better to entertain friends at a first class cafe than to cook at home. At least this is the opinion of Harriett Mae Reynolds, the genial proprietress.

The Harriett Mae Tea Room is making a specialty of catering to dinner parties and clubs and the big response given indicates that the people are getting just what they want at this popular cafe. Having had a long and varied experience in catering to the better class of trade, Miss Reynolds is maintaining her reputation in this respect and is getting a good run of business.

ALL WEST VIRGINIANS CALLED TO PICNIC REUNION

All who ever lived in West Virginia are invited to a great picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, June 16, in Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles. Come early and spend the day with friends. There will be county registers and headquarters so you can find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program of music and addresses but the main purpose will be to have a good time and to meet friends from all over Southern California. All the tourists and visitors from the old home state as well as our residents are wanted so as to make this the greatest picnic in our history. Bring your baskets well filled. Coffee will be served free to all who buy the souvenir badges.

Each one who learns of this picnic is asked to pass the word along. Our success is up to you. Only through you can we reach the people. Further information may be had of C. H. Parsons, secretary of the Federation of State Societies, Continental National bank, 901 S. Main street, Los Angeles. Phone 10261, or of the president, J. B. Alexander, phone Boyle 4994.

Members will be provileged to bring any one likely to be interested in these matters and to present any applications for memberships they have been able to secure.

The club is starting its new year practically free from debt and is therefore in a position to promote activities for the welfare of members which have heretofore been impossible.

The Glendale club is said to be the largest in Los Angeles County and it can become a very influential institution if its members will unite for team work and indicate what they want.

JUNE ROMANCE

Hhe many friends of Miss Helen Engle and George Stanley of this city will be surprised to learn of their marriage Friday night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Cora B. Engle, 814 East Harvard, with Rev. Louis Tinning officiating.

Though a quiet affair, limited to the immediate families of the contracting parties and a few close friends, it was a very pretty, simple wedding.

The house was decorated with roses and other flowers which would carry out a pink and white color scheme, and the ceremony took place in a floral bower arranged in a corner of the living room.

The bride's dress was an afternoon gown of gray canton crepe, and she was accompanied by Miss Mildred Sawyer, in blue taffeta. The groom was supported by his brother, Charles Sawyer.

The wedding march was played by Miss Claudia Wright.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in which those present congratulated the happy pair and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley had the usual difficulty in escaping from their friends but finally got away for a honeymoon trip. On their return they will make their home with the bride's mother for a time and will later go to Berkeley. Mrs. Stanley has been acting as bookkeeper for the board of education.

Charles Talbott of 411 South Pacific avenue entertained with a "stag" party at his home Thursday night in honor of Roy Selover, who is to be married next week to Miss Margaret Crawford. Those in the party were Roy Selover, George Hastings, Donald Cowlin, Ludwig Gossman, W. F. Talbott, Robert Evans, J. C. Palmer and Harold Bush of Los Angeles, and Charles Talbott. DIFFERENCE IN HEAT

Southern Californians feel a genuine sympathy for the people of the east who have been suffering prostrations from heat. This feeling is no less keen because a few days earlier the same people were so annoyed by cold as to be on the point of indicting the sun for conspiracy to freeze them.

The degrees of temperature charged with the present offending are given as 88 above zero in New York and 89 in Chicago. In this section, the actual conditions concomitant upon such readings of the thermometer could not have occasioned discomfort. The difference has been mentioned many times. It is just beginning to be understood, and that accounts in part for the streams of travelers now bound west. A few years ago the idea prevailed that southern California was a furnace in summer. The fact that it affords the most agreeable climate available has begun to produce visible effect.

The mercury as officially recorded reaches a height here at times that, if experienced in either of the cities mentioned, could not be endured. This is for a short period in the middle of the day. It does not cause sunstroke nor even impel cessation from whatever activities of work or play may be in progress. It is sandwiched between cool mornings and cool evenings. In regions of more humidity the atmosphere becomes oppressive, and there is no refuge from it. Here the shade always is a safe refuge, and the nights so cool that to the uninitiate they seem to be chilly.

It is only fair to the roasted easterner that these interesting and instructive facts be impressed upon his mind, even at the risk the informant incurs of being charged with perpetrating "old stuff."

WIDE-AWAKE PEOPLE

The people of the entire south end of the state must feel an interest in the results of the Los Angeles election. There was an emphatic showing of the fact that residents of that city realize that they are prosperous, that the municipality is growing, and that they intend that the growth shall be along the best lines. They proved themselves not afraid of bonds issued for permanent improvements. At the same time, Pasadena was on the eve of determining as to an issue of bonds for a civic center. The outcome in Los Angeles was a distinct encouragement to proponents of the Pasadena civic center project. It really was a general assurance that to belong to the "financial white spot" is a condition with a meaning.

Los Angeles voted in favor of harbor bonds to the amount of $15,000,000; city hall bonds, $7,500,000; viaduct bonds, $2,000,000; playground bonds, $1,500,000; library site bonds, $500,000. Interest enough was taken in the location of the proposed city hall to cause the north end to be chosen by a large majority. Assent was given to the construction of a subway with the central station under Pershing square. The only bond proposition defeated was that for promoting power production at Boulder canyon, a very expensive and indefinite enterprise.

The citizens of Los Angeles are to be congratulated. After issuance of the authorized bonds the city will still be well within the limit of its credit. The bonds in each instance where they received support were for an excellent purpose. The example set by the Los Angeles election is stimulating. It shows an abiding faith in the future as well as a determination that the future shall be marked by growth favorable alike to industrial expansion, to artistry and to culture.

THE GOVERNMENT NOT HELPLESS

New Yorkers may still retain the idea that by repealing the state prohibition law they have taken all the potency out of the prohibition amendment. However, their faith in such view, cheering as it may be to their thirsty souls, might reasonably be weakened were they to consider the facts, soberly as possible.

One of the most popular of the Broadway grills now has a padlock on the door. It will remain there for six months, the key being in possession of a federal officer. The place was closed because the proprietors shared in the delusion that a national law has been rendered void by the action of local politicians. New York has a feeling that it is superior to the rest of the country. Its residents, were they to lay aside their accustomed hauteur, probably could be made to realize that with the rest of the country against them, they constitute a minority.

Prohibition, at least in so far as it affects the United States alone, can be enforced. Enforcement naturally will become easier as time goes on. For one thing, the habitual soaks, sopping up whatever brand of bootleg liquor they are able to get, will die out. The general public is being taught, largely by scanning the mortuary list, and is learning that there is no safety in dealing with the vendors of deadly dosage disguised as whisky.

This will narrow the offenders down to the rich, and the dealers who cater to the rich. Padlocks on the doors of the latter hardly could fail to bring about a reform. Breakers of the prohibition amendment are in need of education. Probably a large proportion of them have the intelligence to respond to the efforts to educate them.

Germany perhaps will soon be able to name acceptable terms. At least France has given an outline of terms that would be satisfactory, and Germany ought to be competent to take a hint.

Just as had been expected, the cold wave of the middle west vanished to give place to intense heat. Even at this, the people in that part of the country appear not to be satisfied.

TRAPPING THE CHILDREN

A man has been arrested on the charge of invading school grounds in Los Angeles, and selling illicit drugs to children. Of course there could be no purpose in this but to produce a new crop of addicts to keep alive the most nefarious traffic in the world. "Dope" as has become a generic name for the interdicted narcotics, is expensive. It costs so much that adult addicts spend thousands of dollars individually in satisfying their cravings. It could not be sold at a profit for the pennies and dimes of boys and girls.

It is said that the prisoner in this case had recently been released from the county jail after serving a term for a similar offense. In this is demonstrated the former weakness of the law. Under the law as it now stands, he could not have been released in less than six years, and for a second offense, his term would have been ten years. This is mild enough. Such a criminal is not fit to be at large. He is more dangerous than a rabid dog, and has all the venom and treachery of a serpent.

The hope may be expressed, that having been caught again the criminal will be given the full benefit of the law. Such cases do not call for clemency. On the contrary they call for the most drastic treatment. As fast as captured, dope peddlers should be put permanently beyond the possibility of doing harm.

The fact that a man charged with attempting to subsidize the jury that tried Gov. Small of Illinois, has been sent to jail for refusing to answer questions, cannot be regarded as particularly satisfactory to the executive. The jury in that case never was looked upon as perfect in its integrity.

THE FEAR OF POLITICS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

A well known woman writer recently charged that women have failed as citizens, and she made out a good case against them.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Ida Clyde Clarke, editorial writer for another high class magazine, said in the May number, speaking of the wasted energy in women's clubs:

"See them 'plunging idly' through superficial studies of superficial subjects under hypnotic headings while wars and strikes go on, and she deplores the inability of some adequate power to harness and use the tremendous mental and spiritual powers generated by women through their great organizations."

Two days ago I ran into a prominent man of Los Angeles and he took from his pocket some figures and handed them to me with the comment:

"Those figures show the interest that women in a certain high class section of Los Angeles are taking in that political life that we men helped open to them. What are we going to do about it?"

The figures showed that in the precinct were 237 registered voters. Of these 110 were women. The total vote cast in the recent primaries was 83. Of this number but 12 only were women, and six of the 12 were election officers. Can you beat it?

And that's not all. One of the big clubs in the neighborhood gave a picnic on election day. How is that for good and thoughtful (?) citizenship?

To make matters worse the state congress of Parent-Teacher associations at its meeting in Stockton some time ago expressed very strongly the opinion that the organization must "stay out of politics" and attend strictly to "welfare organization."

All right, ladies, nothing could possibly bring more joy to the enemies of the home and the child. If women shirk their political duties they can be very sure that the forces that are making necessary the ever increasing mass of welfare work will thank the gods of shady politics with music and incense.

Also and incidentally, when the P. T. A.'s get further along in welfare work they will find themselves unable to proceed without a number of political changes. Bad officials will have to give place to good ones, antiquated laws will have to give way to modern legislation. And legislation means legislators, and politics precede the election of such functionaries.

Keep out of politics? Women can't; all they can do is to tuck their heads in the sand and remain ignorant of what politicians are doing. When they vote they are in politics and when they don't they still are in politics, for it always serves somebody's selfish purposes when voters stay home.

The truth is women are still afraid of the word politics. It's the big black bear used by keen scamps to frighten them into being bad citizens, for indifference and shirking corrolate bad citizenship.

If women refuse to use the franchise they deserve to lose it—no, no, no, men, don't feel so important. You deserve the same thing if you refuse to vote, as you too often do.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

LOOK AGAIN

"The Right Word" has received the following communication from L. L. Putnam of Chicago:

"I recently looked for the word discard used as a noun, but I did not find it in any dictionary. Is it possible that a word in as common use as this one is not in sufficiently good repute to be given space by editors of dictionaries?

"When I consulted an unabridged dictionary and could not find it there, I was dumbfounded.

"If the employment of a word is what entitles it to recognition, it seems to me that this one ought to be printed in capitals."

Mr. Putnam will find the noun discard in the New Standard Dictionary (unabridged), the Practical Standard Dictionary (abridged), The Century, and Webster's New International (unabridged).

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Humility is a good thing.

For it prevents greed and arrogance and intolerance and uncharitableness and a lot of evil things.

JAMES W FOLEY

Who realizes that within a few brief years he will be a little handful of dust in a tomb is likely not to set so much store by material things.

And desire for the possession of material things corrodes many an otherwise fine spirit.

Too great desire for possession of material things is at the back of greed and vanity and envy and jealousy and often of crime.

It was Diogenes also who said that when a man rids himself of the desire he is in the way of happiness.

* * *

For the possession of things does not at all make for happiness.

Many persons desire the possession of things thinking they will bring happiness.

But things are merely desired to fill up the emptiness of life.

And the more things thrown into the empty life, the emptier the life is likely to become.

For things will never make life full and complete.

* * *

Fullness and completeness come only from things of the spirit and fine sense.

Every day the newspapers give us instances of misery and unhappiness housed in luxury and among the most elaborate of things.

Lives in which steam yachts and country villas and motor cars and diamonds and silks and laces have been thrown into the emptiness of lives, seeking to bring happiness.

And making the lives the more empty.

* * *

The value in the world is not at all in things.

It is not in diamonds or luxuries.

It is not in anything but in human beings.

Human beings make things.

They are the creators of all the things we reckon as valuable.

* * *

A sick body cannot take pleasure in things.

For it is in pain. And pain desires nothing but release from suffering.

And a sick soul cannot enjoy things.

For it is in pain. And the possession of things is merely a mockery to a sick soul.

* * *

So the reflections that rise from an understanding of the vanity of things are useful.

There is one epitaph that might well be written above the dust of every really great man who ever lived and died:

"HE KNEW THE TRUTH AND HE WAS NOT AFRAID."

* * *

Instantly we know the truth as to value and are relieved of the desire for the possession of things, we are not afraid.

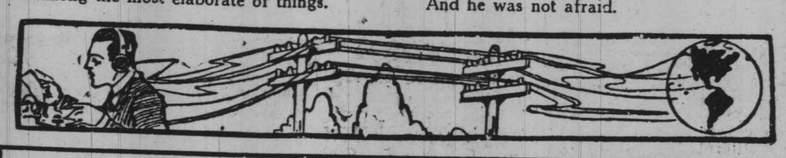
The greatest man in the world has no material possessions.

When lots were cast and his garments apportioned His earthly estate was disposed of.

He had no fear of the loss of things.

For he had no things to lose.

And he was not afraid.



Songs of the Poets

The Throstle—By Alfred Tennyson

"Summer is coming, summer is coming,
I know it, I know it, I know it.
Light again, leaf again, life again, love again,"
Yes, my wild little poet.

Sing the new year in under the blue.
Last year you sang it as gladly.
"New, new, new, new!" Is it then so new
That you should carol so madly?

"Love again, song again, nest again, young again,"
Never a prophet so crazy!
And hardly a daisy yet, little friend,
See, there is hardly a daisy.

"Here again, here, here, here, happy year!"
O warble unchidden, unbidden!
Summer is coming, is coming my dear.
And all the winters are hidden.

VISION HARD TO DEFINE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

JOHN R. MOTT of Y. M. C. A. fame said the other day: "Vision is a rare gift, it is hard to define. But a good working definition of vision is the capacity to see what others do not see, to see further than they see, and to see before they see. A man may be greatly impaired by education or opportunity instead of aided."

Most of us have fairly good eyesight and one man looks at as many things as another. Only he does not see them.

And the trouble is that every visible thing is the symbol of the invisible. The truth is never on the surface, it is always hidden.

The earth is apparently flat. To prove this all you have to do is to look at it, common sense tells you it is flat, the reasoning is excellent. There is only one thing the matter with it. It is not true.

Common sense is almost always wrong. Education is merely the correcting of the errors of common sense.

Common sense tells us that the sun revolves around the earth, you have observed this yourself, but education tells us the earth revolves around the sun, which relatively speaking stands still.

Therefore the truth is not discerned with the eye of the flesh but with the eye of the mind.

This is equally applicable to more important things. For instance, anybody can see that if any one smites you on one cheek the best course to pursue is to smash him in the face. It is only when your mind's eye is cleared up that you understand that you can come much nearer to getting even with him by turning the other cheek.

Common sense and plain observation tell us that the only way to protect a country is by having plenty of battleships and a big army and navy. It is only when you get the scales removed from your inner eye that you can see that this is the very worst form of protecting any country. And you may be comforted in this conclusion by reading your history, which will show you that every country that has tried it has come to ruin.

Common sense tells us that "every woman is a rake at heart," and that all men are dishonest and selfish. There is plenty of proof of this. And the only trouble with it, just as in the case of the earth being flat, is that it is not true. But no amount of argument will convince you, for it is impossible to convince a blind man.

The only way you can be convinced is by improving the quality of your mind's eye or at least by getting the proper glasses.

The whole trouble with this world is blindness. We go about bumping one another, hurting one another, offending one another, simply because we grope in the dark—we cannot see.

This is not a new-fangled notion, it is perhaps one of the oldest of the world's teachings, you will find it among the Hindoos, they call it Maya, which means that all visible things are Illusions.

You can never see a man with your eyes of the flesh, because every man is a ghost, a spirit; that is easily proved by the fact that when the change called death occurs we put away the body in the ground and we do not conceive of the man as being in the ground, but as being in heaven—maybe.

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

LIVING OR HOARDING?

[Buffalo Express]

Dr. Josiah Oldfield has made the assertion in London that a man may reach the age of 152 years by living on a diet of coarse bread, porridge, buttermilk, vegetables, butter, cheese and home brewed ale. The ale is not essential, he says, but is a potent factor in attaining long life.

Dr. Oldfield, like some others, seems to think that living is just sticking on earth for a certain number of years. There are many things to be done in this world, and if a person really wants to live he must live for others as well as himself. That costs energy, but it is living and much better than just hoarding years.

A DISCRIMINATING JUDGE

[Fairhaven Star]

All honor to the Maine chief justice who threw out a verdict and then drove the jury from the courtroom for bringing in a verdict of not guilty in a liquor case when the evidence was overwhelmingly against the defendant. There is nothing sacred about juries or about the jury system. The only value of jury trials is in the honest weighing of evidence by intelligent jurors. If these qualities are lacking, as so often seems to be the case, the dispensing of justice is far safer in the hands of learned and upright judges, men of the type of Chief Justice Philbrook of Maine.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

President Harding will be welcomed in California. The people of this section will be glad to see him. There will be no shade of partisanship about his reception. A President is President to all, and the dignity of his great office is entitled to recognition.

HENRY JAMES

A number of presidents have visited this coast. McKinley was present at the launching of the Olympia, afterwards famous as the flagship of Admiral Dewey. Harrison came and was showered with honors. His cold and austere demeanor chilled the populace that had been eager to do him honor, but efforts were made not to show it. Roosevelt came with his hearty "Bully!" and warmed the cockles of the heart by his presence.

Each of these men had been better known, a more clearly defined personality, than Harding. After the visit Californians will feel better acquainted with the chief executive.

The itinerary includes Alaska, an area purchased from Russia at a price that would pay about a quarter of the cost of a modern battleship. Yet there was loud railing at Seward for the foolishness of his investment. It includes also the northwest with such cities as Portland, Seattle and Tacoma. All of these are in a region that the great Webster once declared never would be worth acquiring.

In southern California the President will see a vast and blooming expanse, part of a section that in the geographies of his boyhood days was indicated by a red splotch marked "Great American Desert."

It is possible that he is just as anxious to get acquainted with the West as the West is to meet him face to face.

* * *

The soviets say that Russia wants young men for its fields and armies.

Particularly for the armies. The bread of an unappreciated charity may be regarded as rendering cultivation of the fields superfluous in part.

* * *

Hearst is still setting his hired men on Chief Justice Taft. The latter does not appear to be perturbed. Perhaps he is unaware of the kihying.

The grievance is that Mr. Taft is in receipt of an annuity established years ago by Carnegie. Perhaps Hearst is too much concerned over something that is not his business. Or possibly he remembers the time when one of his own war correspondents was exposed as receiving a salary from Germany. Considerable fuss was made about that circumstance, and he may want to get even.

Down at the harbor a white man objected to being served in a restaurant with a negro. Out of the ensuing argument resulted the shooting of the negro, and the serious, perhaps fatal wounding of two men who had nothing to do with the quarrel.

The white man had brought his prejudices from Virginia. He is in jail charged with murder, so it will be a long time before he will have the privilege of taking them back to the place where they may fit better into the social scheme.

The presiding justice of Los Angeles county is under four indictments charging forgery, perjury and attempted bribery. He proclaims his innocence, and the verdict must be held in abeyance.

It is rare indeed that an official serving in such capacity is accused of crime.

A few months ago the manufacturer of a familiar type of automobile died. The probate of his will shows that he left an estate of more than thirty-seven millions. All this huge sum had been piled up in a few years. The fact naturally evokes serious thinking.

There is no circumstance readily to be cited to show that an individual needs a fortune of such magnitude. There cannot be great satisfaction even to the individual himself, as his dead hands relinquish the treasure.

It is said that the price of automobiles has been brought down to as low a point as the makers can afford. Perhaps so. To accept such a view, however, necessitates the admission that the manufacture of the vehicles is not worth while unless it results in a thirty-seven million dollar accumulation.

There is abundant evidence that the residents of a prosperous community no longer are scared by any proposition that involves the issuing of bonds, if the proposition is good in itself.

What's the use of being prosperous and not profiting by it?

Charles Colden of San Pedro narrowly missed being elected to the Los Angeles city council. The whole of the waterfront will be sorry that he did not win, and some others will share the feeling.

Passing through Monrovia, an exceedingly pretty and enterprising town, a group of automobilists drew up to the curb. Close to the curb was a broken bottle. It pierced the vitals of the front tire, the tire collapsing with a vicious hiss.

"Pretty place enough," growled the driver, "but why do they set bottles out to catch travelers?"

So instead of stopping for contemplated refreshments, the visitors put on a spare tire and rolled away.

Soda is to be fifteen cents in Chicago. In the good old days when it was compounded of marble dust afloat in sweetened wind, it could be had for a nickel.

In some happy day to come dealers may put the stuff so high that noboby can afford to drink it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Well. I'm a godfather. I didn't know it until today, although I've been a godfather for seven years. The proud parents did not think it worth while to write me about it.

"We always thought we'd be getting into town some day and then we'd tell you," explained the papa.

Ten years ago he slumped into my office in a state of utter dejection. In love, in debt, out on the road for the first time. And he had been, up to that moment, the most complete failure on record. He could not even get past an office boy. That he would be fired when he reported was certain. That meant the loss of the girl, of happiness, of hope, of a future, of everything that makes life worth living.

"Even if you do lose all that, you'll get over it," I told him.

He said he didn't want to get over it. The one thing that could avert ruin was good advice.

"How can I sell goods?" he asked.

I never sold goods in my life. I never considered how to sell goods. I never wanted to sell goods. But heaven forbid that I should be so selfish as to refuse to give advice. So I heard his story in detail, resting my cheek on one finger the way great men do in popular magazines.

"Of course you haven't sold any goods," I said. "Why, man, you haven't seen any one you could sell goods to. You've been talking to office boys at brass gates."

"But how can I get in to see the men who do the buying?" wailed my young friend.

"Bull your way in," I said. "Get in if you have to use a cold chisel. Bluff, bully, coax, fight, kid, argue, stall, wait your way in. But get in."

So that's how I'm a godfather. He did just that.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

OLD ROMANCE IN NEW FILM AT THE T. D. & L.

"Thorns and Orange Blossoms" Opens Sunday

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

A college gymnasium, with basketball court, swinging rings, parallel bars, horizontal bars, punching bags, Indian clubs and dumbbells, together with other paraphernalia familiar to such a place, forms a novel and interesting setting for a college dance which is a colorful sequence of William deMille's production for Paramount, "Only Thirty Eight," closing tonight.

Resurrecting old favorites of a generation ago seems to be the order of the day in cinema circles, if way back in the good old days there was a favorite, then it was certainly "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," the screen version of which has been made recently by B. P. Schulberg, of Preferred Pictures, and starts its local run at the T., D. & L. Theater Sunday.

When Bertha M. Clay was considered the last word in a modern author, the story first broke into print as a serial in a popular magazine. It is safe to say that for several months the newstands were sold out on that particular periodical and when the book was published our mothers and fathers laughed and cried over three million copies. Then some ambitious playwright turned the piece into a stage success which enjoyed many consecutive seasons of immense popularity all over the country.

The movie producers are always on the lookout for good picture material and it was only a matter of time when one of them was bound to select "Thorns and Orange Blosoms." But although the play was conceived last century its screen version is as up-to-date as the newest styles. High powered motor cars dash through its lavish backgrounds, the elopement itself being consummated with the aid of a 1922 model automotive creation.

SOUTH BRAND IS DUE FOR BIG GAIN

"There is certain to be a big gain in the value of South Brand property, and of property fronting on side streets in the southern section of the city," said Alfred R. Johnson of the Suburban Realty company, 508 South Brand boulevard.

"There are many reasons for making such an assertion. The constant building activity is one factor, and the fact that the permanent growth of any smaller city is toward the large city. I predict that within the year, Brand boulevard will be built up solid from Colorado to Windsor."

Mr. Johnson stated that he believed the amount of building had been curbed somewhat, in his belief, due to the price of building materials. "Conditions will undoubtedly change in the near future, however," said Mr. Johnson, "due to the fact that the federal reserve banks have raised the interest 1 per cent in order to curb the rise in price in building materials.

"This is certain to mean that building materials will be offered at a lower figure, and will encourage building activity."

Building permits for the month of May are making a record for Glendale, and with the lowering of price in building materials, intimated through Mr. Johnson, it is probable that an even larger scale of production will be realized, showing its effects in all parts of the city.

A traveling man got a letter from his firm using a good deal of crisp language about expense accounts. It was passed around the smoker and condemned roundly. After some bitter comment he slipped it into his inside pocket.

"But why do you keep that stuff?" asked a friend. "I'd tear it into a thousand bits and throw it out the window."

"Well, they made some good points," he explained. "And I've gotta write to my wife tonight."

"Huh?"

"She's spending too much coin."

OPEN ATTRACTIVE CANYON RESORT TO BUYERS

Hikers and Motorists Offered New Haunts for the Week-end Trip

Away from everything but nature's own outdoors, Blanchard canyon, comprising 93 acres in the Tujunga district, is serving as a magnet to motorists, hikers and homeseekers.

Blanchard canyon, which was opened 3 months ago, is already the scene of construction of thirty-six mountain cabins being built by those who have purchased lots to serve as the rendezvous for their friends over the weekend. C. R. Morgan, manager of the tract, reports that during the past three months between three and four hundred lots have been sold.

As further inducement to hikers, trails are being built over the hills and leading back into the most obscure retreats. Hikers are invited to come and make themselves at home here, and see for themselves the delights to be had. Lying at an elevation of 2500 feet, the hills offer views of the ocean and Catalina Island, and many far inland points.

Friday, a hiking contest was staged among several of the residents at Blanchard canyon to see who could reach the crest of a certain peak, whose challenge to hikers was finally heeded, when it was announced that the first to reach the top would be honored by having the peak as a namesake. Evelyn Morgan, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Morgan, laid claim to this honor, reaching the top after a hard climb over earthy new trails, far in the lead of her competitors. As a consequence this point is called Evelyn Peak.

Water supply is furnished from a huge tank in the hills, which is to be replaced by one of 100,000 gallon capacity. Construction is to start on this new tank the first of the week.

Blanchard canyon is reached by driving through La Canada along Michigan avenue. The tract office is located on the boulevard.

WEIGHS HUSBAND IN GOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9. (United Press).—Unless the prospective lovelorn swains of Miss Susan F. Grant of this city can prove they are worth more to her than $3,000, she won't get married for two years.

A wealthy uncle left her $3,000, provided she remain single two years more. He had told her before he died that such a good-looking girl was sure to marry too young—and probably foolishly. He gave her the money in hopes of keeping her single two years more.

MEET JOE, A SON OF ROMANTIC ITALY

A streak of dust. The gaunt outlines of Joe's black horse. The even more gaunt outlines of Joe's buggy. And then the ruddy countenance of Joe Pagliuso, himself, beaming from beneath a drab felt, slightly the worse for wear and warm weather—the swagger, the assurance, and the gesture of the Italian making themselves evident even before the vehicle had ground its wheels to a standstill beside the red touring car in which our party had searched the far corners of Rossmoyne for this very Joe, who for 34 years had held the responsible position of foreman of the huge rancho owned by Judge Ross.

"A young lady to talk to you, Joe."

"O—vera mucha pleezed," and Joe punctiliously alighted from his "rig" and stretched forth a brown plump palm for a cordial western handshake.

Suave, smiling and sunburned, Joe Pagliuso waited while our mission was explained to him. After hearing that we had come to hear some of the past history and romance of Rossmoyne, formerly a part of the Verdugo estate, and recently purchased from Judge Ross, who had secured the land more than half a century before from the Verdugo family, Joe seemed to be cast on the crest of an avalanche of reminiscenses.

In his quaint English that made one think of Italian wine, spaghetti and olive oil, Joe told of coming to America from the south of Italy 34 years ago, after serving three years in the Italian army, terminating his service with the rank of sergeant, and the determination to conquer the world, or at least part of it. That Joe has succeeded in the latter clause of this intention was granted years ago, when he became foreman of the Ross rancho.

Joe didn't come to California immediately after coming to the United States. He had been for some time in Colorado, and had about decided to return to Italy, where the weather is warm and the breeze balmy the year around, when he received a letter from a friend in California, urging him to come to the southland, and telling him that if he did come, he would never desire to return to Italy, because he would find California just like his homeland.

Joe came. He worked for Judge Ross for ten months, and was then made foreman. It was Joe who directed the work of clearing the fine land which is now covered with heavily laden apricot orchards but was then a wilderness of sagebrush. It was Joe who directed the care of the fine olive trees, whose fruits have yielded some of the finest olive oil to be bought, treated in the genuine Italian method.

It was Joe who told how the orange groves should be irrigated and pruned, and today, it is Joe who is still in charge of the remaining ranch work to be done at the Judge's old home. (And it was also Joe who told us that it was Joe who did all this, a justifiable pride welling up in his bosom as he recounted the details of the making of undreamed wealth from this soil.)

Joe still drives his black horse and rides in his buggy. One of our party asked him if he had ever driven a machine.

Joe shrugged disdainfully. "Nah. I gotta my horse."

And next to Joe Pagliuso, the black horse knows more about the topography of Rossmoyne than any individual to be found on the premises, it is safe to conjecture. This faithful animal knows every trail, and every bit of territory where there is a trail, it is said.

The things that Glendalians take for granted are the things that, in his most enthusiastic moments, Joe did not dream could come to pass. For how could anyone tell, more than 25 years ago, that the little post office, which was located at the grocery store, and which sold only two or three stamps a day, should have some day to enlarge its premises in order to send out mail for a population now in excess of 40,000. And who could tell that in the valley below, where the total population did not exceed 50, a thriving metropolis, with a future population which will inevitably triple that of the present, was to come? And who could tell that the land that owners were willing to virtually give away for a song, would become the source of wealth for the many thousands who have been drawn to this vicinity?

It was entirely unforeseen. At the present time, there are among the poorer classes of the city of Glendale those who, had they realized the wealth within their grasp, would be living lives of ease and plenty, instead of toil and poverty.

Joe told of having purchased a lot under protest, between Broadway and Harvard, for $2000. This lot, with the brick block now located upon it, he states he would not sell for less than $100,000. He also told of having at one time been offered 20 acres of land in the heart of Glendale, for $100 an acre, and because it seemed too much money, he refused to buy.

With a sigh Joe recounted this last, but as he has attached his name to many valuable sites in Glendale and vicinity, it cannot be said that this was an occasion of failing to open the door to opportunity. At the present time, the 10 acres of apricots adjoining the Haddock-Nibley tract office, are deeded to Joe Pagliuso.

BUSY BUILDING AT SAGAMORE PARK TRACT

Wesley Roberts Co. Engaged in Building Many Houses

Sagamore Park, lying in the hills at Glassell and Verdugo, is the scene of much building activity. The Wesley Roberts company has undertaken to build a number of houses at some of the most choice locations, and the sound of hammers beat a steady tattoo throughout the day as the framework grows under the hand of the carpenter.

These houses are English style residences, containing 4, 5 and 6 rooms. They will be sold, it is announced, on terms like rent. A number of choice lots are still available at Sagamore Park, it is announced, and these are convenient to the 5-cent car line to Los Angeles.

Sagamore Park tract office is located to the right of the intersection of Glassell and Verdugo road and can be reached from Glendale by driving out San Fernando road to Verdugo road.

Copley Graduates. Hold Good Reunion

The return to Ohio from California, of two lady members of an old war-time school of Copley, Ohio, brought 14 happy people together on June 7, at the Virginia hotel, in Long Beach, for a midday feast and an all-around good visit.

The feast consisted not altogether of food and drink, for there was a profusion of beautiful flowers and an abundance of the confectioner's product of fine quality. The fairy-like environments of that renowned hostelry were in marked contrast to those of sixty years ago, when in the little town of Copley, Ohio, under the leadership of Rev. John Encell they builded much better than they knew. How well his work served them in their long battle fought for the better things in life, the remaining portion of that once great school now bears testimony.

Two of that number, now living in Glendale, Mrs. J. J. Spafford and Arthur W. Scudder, were in attendance at this get-together meeting. Mrs. Burrows of Long Beach, and Mrs. Johnston of Inglewood, in whose honor the gathering was held, will visit Ohio and are planning to attend the annual reunion of the school. They will recount the meeting at the Virginia hotel on June 7.

GEORGE KARR IS HOST TO FOLKS OF SHIRT CO.

Thirty employes of the Baldwin Shirt company of 1725 South Brand boulevard will be the guests of Manager Karr, at dinner tonight, served at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

Mr. Karr is planning to leave shortly for the Rotary convention in Missouri and the dinner was given as a get-together prior to his departure. The guests will include the employes and salesmen for the company. Following the dinner and social time at the Harriett Mae, the party will adjourn to the Glendale theater, where seats have been reserved.

"I will attend the Rotary convention," stated Mr. Karr, "after which I intend to spend two or three weeks at the Kansas factory of the company, back in the old home town, Parsons, and then I will return to dear old Glendale."

George E. Stanley and Miss Helen Engle were married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. A. Engle, 814 East Harvard street. Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, officiated. For further details call up Glen. 443-J.

MONDAY SHOPPING CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESS

"We are ready to go strong on the Monday shopping campaign," said P. R. Cushman, proprietor of the Kafateria Shoe Store, 126 N. Brand boulevard. "It has proved a decided success."

In offering atractions to the shopper for Monday, Mr. Cushman is making a special price on white canvass pumps with rubber soles. In addition to these he has received a shipment of the colored sandals and sport shoes, which are in so much demand at present. For Monday these will be specially priced.

The King Tut sandal and the low sport colored kid, also a white canvass sport shoe trimmed in the colored kid, are among the latest shipments received at the Kafateria Shoe Store. Mr. Cushman announces that although for a time the shoe dealer was unable to secure a large enough shipment of these shoes to fill the demand he is now receiving shipments every few days, so that there is some assurance that the shopper can find the shoes she wants at the price she can afford to pay.

Mr. Andrews is saving $79 a year and so can you by smoking "BULL" DURHAM

Read this

Pentershire Mills. April 21st 1923

The American Tobacco Co
Durham N.C.

Dear Sirs after reading your Bull Durham ad in the paper I decided I would try Bull for a month and see for my self.

I used to smoke 2 packages of 15¢ cigarettes a day and during the past month I have smoked 24 sacks of Bull so this is what I saved

60 packages of cigarettes at 15¢ = $9.00
24 sacks of Bull Durham at 10¢ = $2.40
I saved $6.60 a month smoking Bull

This letter is to thank you for the money saving tip

I am sincerely
Wm Andrews

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham tobacco will cut down the cost of your smoking. Remember, "Bull" gives you 50 cigarettes of the best flavor and quality for 10 cents.

This means easily a saving for the average smoker of from $1 to $1.50 a week—$52 to $79 a year.

Seventy-nine dollars will buy lots of things. A radio set, a talking machine, a very fine suit of clothes, a set of tires, the first fifteen payments on a Ford, a good-sized insurance policy.

Hard to roll your own? Not really. Give yourself a chance to learn, this way:

Carry a sack of "Bull" in your pocket all the time, as well as your regular cigarettes. Every time you think of smoking a cigarette pull out your sack of "Bull" and try rolling one.

By the time you've used the sack you ought to be a fair producer. And you'll certainly be a convert to the mild, delightful flavor of "Bull" Durham tobacco.

With each package you receive a book of 24 leaves of RIZ LA+—the finest cigarette paper in the world.

Now try it yourself and write us your experience

NATURE STUDY'S VALUE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Of the many papers read at the latest meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science few were addressed so directly to the public as those devoted to the subject of nature study. For this there was excellent reason in the practical helpfulness of nature study to people of all ages and all conditions of life.

As was emphasized by Miss Gertrude B. Goldsmith, instructor in biological science and nature study at the State Normal School, Salem, Mass.:

"The field of nature study is broad enough to satisfy all tastes, and nature study leads to better physical conditions, higher intellectual enjoyments and a cleaner moral tone."

Nature study would, in fact, be tremendously worth while if it did no more than give people a delightful objective for outdoor exercise. The proper study of birds and insects, of trees and flowers, necessarily involves walking in the open, one of the most useful of health-conserving activities.

And everywhere are to be found persons who, formerly more or less out of health, are today in good condition because of the walking they have done as a result of acquiring an interest in some form of nature study.

That it used to be their custom to under-walk was due wholly to their finding walking "dull" and tiresome." They no longer find it so, their minds being pleasurably occupied throughout the walks which they now take regularly and eagerly.

Other people, for the matter of that, have greatly benefited from nature study through this very circumstance of its providing them with pleasurable mental occupation during their leisure hours.

Uninterested in anything except their work—and perhaps not keenly interested in that—they became so self-centered in their thinking as to induce some degree of nervous illness. This held them captive until, through the tactful persuasion of a friend or a physician, they found in nature study an aid to that externalized mental activity which they needed above all else.

Many among them, too, have found nature study a stimulus and a help to unwonted exercise of all their mental powers. Through it they have gained increased ability to observe closely, concentrate vigorously, reason soundly. Such gains, indeed, are certain to accrue to all earnest students of nature.

So that it can hardly be deemed cause for surprise that scientists, physicians and educators are more and more urging the desirability of nature study as a leisure time avocation for old and young alike. Nor is it to be wondered that, among the public, the numbers of nature study devotees are constantly growing.

Though the growth, it must be added, is as yet neither so rapid nor so extnsiv as it ought to b—and as it will be when the varied joys and profits of nature study become more generally known.

FRANCE TURNS TO ELECTRIC JUICE ONCE AGAIN

[By Associated Press]

PARIS, June 8.—Electrification in France, held back by the war, its devastation and the upward swing of prices, is now being furthered in many ways by the government, and within a few years many pretentious plans should be completed.

The greatest progress is being made in the devastated regions, for there villages and towns must be built from the ground up and an electric installation frequently precedes gas. The government, in reimbursing owners for destroyed factories, urged from the first that manufacturers motorize their plants.

Water power development in the southeastern mountainous region is well under way, and power soon will be available for the first stretches of electrified railroads. In Brittany, on the Atlantic coast, the tide as a source of power soon will be tested in an experimental installation.

Electric appliances for cooking and cleaning, which came formerly almost entirely from America and Italy, are now being made in France. Electric stoves recently appeared, but the French cook still sticks to her hard coal stove.

AMERICAN TIRES

Late figures from the export department of a large tire company show that American-made automobile tires are being exported at the rate of more than a million a year, an estimated worth of $20,250,000.—Automobile Digest.

Davison Scholarship Fund Is Established by Widow of Banker

Carrying out the often expressed wish of the late financier, Mrs. Davison has set under way the establishment of a memorial to her husband, to be known as the "Henry P. Davison Scholarship Fund." Three students from Oxford and three from Cambridge every year will be able to spend a year at an American university. Two will go to Yale, two to Harvard and two to Princeton. The three American universities have agreed to furnish the English students free tuition, and the income from the fund will be used toward defraying their expenses.

No Fairy Tales for These Kiddies

Left to right, we have Byrnece, Beuiah, Brauda and Beverly MacFadden, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bernarr MacFadden, the former being the "father of physical culture" and multi-millionaire publisher. Mr. MacFadden has challenged Supreme Court Justice John Ford of New York city, who inspired the so-called "clean books" bill in the New York legislature, to a debate. He has eliminated fairy stories in the education of his four beautiful children and lets them read anything which reflects life.

There may be mighty little poetry in the life of a poet's wife.

CHILDREN ENTERED IN DAHLIA SHOW CAMPAIGN

Planting Flowers Is Approved by P. T. A. as Educational

Supported by business organizations, arranged and directed by the Women's Twentieth Century club, sponsored and assisted by the P.-T. A., and above all, enthusiastically entered into by all the school children, the Dahlia show of Eagle Rock, set for the month of October, bids fair to rival the fine success of the highly praised affair last year.

The move is an educational one of great value to the children, and incidentally the children, as a unit, can be of greater benefit to the dahlia campaign than any other group backing it, owing to the enthusiasm which they fairly radiate as their plants begin to grow and because of the strength of their numbers.

The P.-T. A., realizing the value of the lesson that growing things implant in the mind of the child, are sponsoring the cooperation of the school children in the move which is institute to make Eagle Rock a worthy representative of its title, "The Dahlia City."

It is the natural yearning for every child to want a garden, to get out and scoop around in the moist brown spring earth. They look upon the evolution of a plant in a more or less symbolic way. It is a wonderful occurence to a child to see a tiny seed, or a dry brown bulb put to sleep in a little brown bed, and to see little green hands come up still folded from the long sleep, then to see those hands open and spread out to the warmth of the sun, and the little flower faces come peeping out of the swelling green hoods. The spirit of creation calls to them, and children, not so far removed from the elemental voices of life as are their elders, are full of enthusiasm in the springtime, when every tree, bush and grass blade fairly shouts of new life and energy stored up for the battle with summer heat and winter blasts.

And the older folks do not fully escape the joy of creating. Some of them, to be sure, get just as much enthusiasm and spiritual comfort out of watching a turnip, or a head of cabbage flourish, as they do out of seeing a flower push up to the light and lift a happy, bright faces to the world. Wordsworth said that flowers have souls. This may be too far away for average 100-cents-make-a-dollar minds to grasp and appreciate, but it is a fact that flowers make souls. They bring pleasure and appreciation of the perfume of life into souls through their beauty and fragrance. And children are especially susceptible to their influence.

Whether it is a new thought or a flower or a head of cabbage—it is all soul building, and of spiritual and educational value to the child. If every one could have a little garden plot to interest him in the evolution and progress of plants, the love of nature would be fostered in the heart of every child.

Two hundred children have already signed on the list to plant dahlia bulbs. Perhaps each will plant but one, but that will go far toward making this section all that the name "Dahlia City" implies to the stranger, and the effort will help each child to realize the joy of taking part in the creation of something worth while and lovely.

Through the assistance of Mr. Grant, of the Grant nursery, enough bulbs have been secured from the Los Angeles dahlia farm to supply the demand at the schools at ten cents a bulb. This is five cents higher than the P.-T. A. planned to charge, but the original order was not forthcoming when it came time to give the plants out.

But at ten cents the children are getting choice, hand-picked bulbs, at cost. Gus Swenson, of the Americal Floral company, has donated a number of bulbs for the children who cannot purchase any but are anxious to share in the work.

Special prizes have been offered for the children's section in the Dahlia show, but the same entries can also compete for the grand prizes. In the children's group, Mrs. Mary Hickson offers $3 for first prize; the P.-T. A. will give $2 for second and $1 for third.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Anderson and their three children arrived in Glendale Wednesday morning from their home in Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are former residents of Glendale, having lived on East Orange Grove avenue some six years ago when the town was much smaller than it is now. Mr. Anderson, who is a brother of Mr. F. W. Anderson, of Anderson's Transfer company, has taken a position with the Glendale-Montrose railroad and will make his home in Montrose.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fisk, of 1819 San Fernando road have left for the north where they will visit friends and be gone about three months.

TIME

Time, I have walked with you for long,
You've brought me many a smile and song,
You've brought me tears that fell like rain,
And then you've brought me joy again.

You gave me youth, with all the joy
That fills the glad heart of a boy,
And if you took my tops and strings
And toys, you brought me other things.

You've made we wrinkles for my brow,
And smoothed them out again somehow.
You've brought me grief, and then with art
You've come and healed my aching heart.

You gave me dreams and if some day
You came and took the dreams away,
You came again and brought me more,
And better, brighter than before.

And if you took my youth from me,
You came and brought me memory,
And there the joys of youth all rest
Like fragrant flowers saved and pressed.

So thank thee Time, for smile and song,
For wonders all the way along,
And give me, when the shadows deep
And darkness falls, thy gift of sleep.

SOLOMON ISLAND MISSIONARY TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. R. C. Nicholson will give an address at the Glendale Presbyterian Church tomorrow at the evening service. His subject will be, "Among the Head Hunters and Cannibals." He has been a missionary in the Solomon Islands of the South Pacific for the past fourteen years. When he went to this field the natives were more bloodthirsty and ferocious than wild beasts. Under the influence of the gospel teaching the island where he has been working is now a peaceful, civilized, enlightened Christian community. The work has also spread out to neighboring islands with the beginnings of similar results. The address given by Mr. Nicholson will be illustrated by stereoptican slides prepared from photographs taken by Mr. Nicholson himself during his past years of work. The changes wrought in the Solomon Islands under the teaching of Mr. Nicholson and his associates is said to be one of the most wonderful in all history. His work as a missionary has been compared to that of John G. Paton, and the message he brings to his audiences is said to be one of the most striking and thrilling of any missionary message of modern times.

PURELY PERSONAL

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds returned yesterday after spending a few days in Avalon.

Mrs. M. O. Ryan, principal of the Broadway school; Miss Alta Gaynor, Miss Sarah Merritt and A. T. Blanford, teachers in the Glendale city schools, were among the Glendalians who attended the pageant and banquet given yesterday in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Los Angeles High school, of which they are members of the alumni. Mrs. Ryan states that out of the class of twenty-seven members with whom she was graduated that nine were present.

A MILLION WONDERS AWAIT THE VISITOR TO THE HIGH SIERRAS

SNOWS OF WINTER ARE RAPIDLY MELTING AND ROADS ARE SLOWLY IMPROVING; THE HILLS INVITE YOU

Second Weekly Installment of Story Descriptive of That High Mountain Country Takes the Motorist to Mono Lake, Describing Streams En Route

Slowly the snows are melting in the High Sierra country and farther and farther into those hills is the motorist angler forcing his way. No sooner does a section become passable to the automobile than some eager "trout hunter" pushes his way into that locality.

Not only does he do this for the first chance at the fishing of the year, but he does so for the scenery. There is something about the early-season scenery of that high mountain country that cannot be secured after the snows have left the mountain sides, and the fellow who is early enough to secure the "first glimpses" of those wonderful mountains, has something that will stay with him throughout his entire life.

Last week the automobile section of the Glendale Press carried the first installment descriptive of the High Sierra country. In that part the motorist was carried up as far as Convict Lake, which has for years been a mecca of the trout angler. This week's part of the story of information goes up as far as Mono Lake where some of the finest duck hunting in the state is secured.

This article, in its two installments, describes all of the prominent fishing streams and lakes to be found in that high mountain country and will be of inestimable value to the fellow who intends making a tour of that territory. The information was compiled jointly by the Auto Section of the Glendale Press and the Automobile Club of Southern California. The facts here presented will be found to be approximately correct.

From Convict Lake we will proceed northward:

Mammoth and Mammoth Lakes

From Convict Lake the road leads to Mammoth, the center of one of the finest recreation areas in California. Here is located Mammoth Resort, and the headquarters of the District Ranger. Supplies, gasoline, oil, pack and saddle stock and guides are obtainable here. Using Mammoth as a base and either stopping at the resort or at one of the beautiful adjacent camping spots, one can spend at least three weeks, go every day and never visit the same place twice. Adjacent to the resort is a rapidly growing summer home colony. The elevation here, 8000 feet, with a clear, dry air, makes this a delightful region for a summer outing.

A pleasant short trip from Mammoth is the Whitmores Tubs, a favorite bathing place with plenty of hot mineral water.

Another point of local interest is Hot Creek Geyser. This geyser boils up in the middle of Hot Creek. On the farther bank of the stream is a boiling caldron which also spouts up to a height of 3 to 4 feet. The rocks here are a honeycomb formation, well worth seeing.

Four miles below Mammoth are the Casa Diablo Hot Springs. Here ice-cold springs are found within four feet of boiling springs. This is a very handy combination, as one can cook over one and drink from the other.

A short distance above Mammoth stands one of the largest Jeffrey pine trees in California. It measures 11 feet in diameter and was over 200 feet high, but a recent heavy winter storm has badly shattered the top of the tree and destroyed considerable of its beauty.

South of the Mammoth-Lake Mary road and about two miles from Mammoth stands Mammoth Rock, a pinnacle of white limestone with a vertical face over 400 feet high. This rock can be seen for miles in several directions.

North of Mammoth Rock about a half a mile stands the remains of the old Mammoth Mill. This mill was operated in the early seventies and considerable gold secured. Due to losing the ledge, the mill was abandoned and dismantled.

Just below the old mill is a fine camping site which the Forest Service intends to improve as soon as funds are available.

From here to Lake George the Forest Service has built a new automobile road, which opens up the wonderful Mammoth Lake region. The old road, built when Pine City wae a booming mining camp, has been practically impassable for many years.

Another mile above Mammoth Rock and the road to the right leads to Twin Lakes, one of the beauty spots of this region. Here the Forest Service intends to develop a fine public camp.

Cataract Falls drops about 500 feet from Lake Mamie to Twin Lakes and is a beautiful sight, the best view being obtained from the top of the falls. Lake Mamie is a shallow lake, but has excellent fly-fishing.

Twin Lakes has fine fly-fishing, especially in July and August.

Following along the shore of Lake Mamie we come to Lake Mary, the largest lake in the group. Boating here is fine and so is the fishing. The average trout from this lake weighs 1 pound, and the record fish, weighing 17 pounds, was caught by an Indian, using a No. 10 brown hackle fly.

Lake George, at the end of the road, is one of the most beautiful lakes in the Sierras. This lake is nearly round, very deep, is fringed by tall trees and has high bluffs, rising from much of the lake shore.

A camp ground as well as some summer home sites will be laid out here. There are big fish in this lake, 15 to 20 pound trout being common. But it takes a fisherman to land them. Practically everybody who comes to this region does more or less fishing and even the ladies have good success. It is up to the camper in this region to see that his camp fire is put out, as the Forest Ranger is right after all who do not observe this very necessary camp regulation.

A fine side trip from Lake George is to climb the glacier to Clara Lake. If such a strenuous climb is not desired the trip can be made by trail. Clara Lake is a pretty spot surrounded by rugged mountain peaks and full of Golden Trout.

From Lookout Point, elevation 10,000 feet, the entire Mammoth country can be seen and there is a wonderful view of Mono Lake. This

Boot of Rubber Protects Distributor

An excellent method of protecting the coil and distributor from water is to cover this unit with a boot made from a short section of the line tube, close one end of the tube with tire cement and push the boot over the distributor. The wires leading from the electrical system can be inserted through holes in the top of the boot.

CALL OF THE OUT-OF-DOORS THIS WEEK IS UP A MILE ABOVE THE SEA WHERE NATURE IS GRAND

Auto Section's Trip Suggestion Will Carry the Motorist Over "Hog's Back" to Camp Baldy, Where the Birds and Squirrels Play

There's a place up in the mountains, just north of Upland, where the birds sing and the squirrels bark, and where the big outdoors may be found in all its glory—where one of the prettiest streams of this section of the country tumbles ceaselessly over the most wonderful boulders imaginable. This stream has, through years and years of constant falling, worn away its rugged, uneven path from which it never strays, all of which makes it more beautiful, more wonderful and more appealing.

From this brief description the reader naturally thinks of Camp Baldy, one of the most beautiful little resting places in Southern California. The first trip of the writer to this resort was made about a dozen years ago. At that time it was known as Camp Baynham. It was started by Charlie Baynham, one of the best "mixers" in the country and a fellow who could hold friends, when he gained them. It was a party of about 20 folks, young and old, of which the writer was a member. Charlie made room for the bunch about 150 miles down stream from the camp, which spot, by the way, is now all built up with beautiful mountain cabins, one of which is owned by Attorney Oliver O. Clark of this city. There are probably other Glendale people who are residents of that wonderful little mountain "city" by this time.

Well, when this party blew into Camp Baynham all of the camping paraphernalia had been carried down to the camping spot by Charlie. It had been sent up a day or so previous and included everything from tents and stakes to picnic hams. There were sides of bacon, cases of canned corn, beans, peas, tomatoes, cases of cookies, several stalks of bananas—everything, in fact, that might be needed in the mountain camp. Several cupboards had been erected by the accommodating management, which even carried down the cots and mattresses and helped to erect the tents and all that. And all this was right on the bank of the wonderful tumbling stream about 15 miles from civilization, and away from gaze of even the inhabitants of the upper camp. The crowd went there for a stay of two weeks and it stayed five, which is a pretty good recommendation for the camp and its management. And when the time came to leave for home regrets were plentiful. Oh, boy, that was "some" outing.

Well, that's Camp Baldy, where the motorists of Glendale who follow the weekly trip suggestions offered by the auto section of the Glendale Press will go this week. It is a place that can be easily reached in a day without anything that looks like hard driving.

Leave Glendale via East Colorado boulevard and following that thoroughfare through Eagle Rock, and on across the Colorado street bridge and into Pasadena. Drive straight through Pasadena and Lamanda Park to Santa Ana avenue, where turn north (left) and proceed two blocks, then turn east (right). The motorist will then be on the celebrated Foothill boulevard, one of the most beautiful drives in Southern California. This road runs through a number of little foothill cities located at the base of the San Bernardino mountains, more beautiful hills than which cannot be found anywhere.

Drive straight out the Foothill boulevard to Monrovia, where a jog of several blocks to the right is made. Road signs will indicate the route and if the motorist follows these markers he cannot loose his way. After leaving Monrovia continue straight east to Duarte, where another right jog is made, after which the road continues eastward to Azusa. Drive right through this town, a mile or so out of which a left jog will be encountered. Drive past the town of Glendora, and out this boulevard past San Dimas canyon, and past the road leading to Claremont, then straight ahead to Uplands, one of the leading foothill cities in San Berhardino county.

At Uplands the motorist will leave the Foothill boulevard, going north on San Antonio avenue. After starting up this avenue the motorist cannot lose his way. After passing a short distance through citrus orchards and the like, over a wonderful highway, the motorist will soon hit the canyon and mountain roads, after striking which each turn in the road will produce its wonderful view.

In past years it was necessary for the camping party making a jaunt up this canyon to pay a toll charge of 50 cents a machine and 25 cents a person but this charge has been removed so that the motorist can now enter without charge. The reason for this charge was that the road was owned and maintained by the San Antonio Water company, and the toll was charged to help in this maintenance work. However, several months ago this road was taken over by the government and at that time the toll charge was lifted.

It is a canyon and mountain drive of ten or fifteen miles from Uplands to Camp Baldy, but every inch will be enjoyed. Before starting on this trip the motorist should make sure that his brakes are in best of shape and that the "old

MOTOR DEALERS TO HOLD BIG JINX

Between 90 and 100 members of the Motor Car Dealers' association of Glendale are expected to attend the second annual High Jinx and outing of the association June 14 and 15 at Forest Home in the San Bernardino mountains.

Details of the two-day program were completed at a meeting of the association held recently at Glen Inn, Glendale and attended by C. H. Hunter, president; Harry E. White, treasurer, and M. B. Towman, secretary of the local organization.

Frank Culver, proprietor of Forest Home, is making special arrangements for the entertainment of the automobile men and will offer several unique stunts for their edification. The dealers in 'new and second-hand ones' are expected to take their fishing tackle along with them and during quiet moments of the outing, whip the nearby streams for trout.

The recently improved mountain boulevard leading from Redlands to Forest Home, 16 miles up Mill creek, makes the resort most attractive and available for such an outing contemplated by the Automobile Dealers' association.

STONE BRUISE

A stone bruise in a shoe is due to a blow from a stone or other hard substance while running at high speed or at medium speed with tire partly deflated. The shoe is pinched between the stone and the rim and the fabric is broken. This makes a weak spot in the tread or side wall and soon there is a blow-out. You may demonstrate this as follows: Lay a piece of inner tube on a hard surface, place a thin piece of cloth on that, and another piece of tube on top. Use a single thickness of tube top and bottom. Strike a heavy blow with the edge of a hammer. The cloth will be broken where it was hit.—Automobile Digest.

CAR CLEANING POINTERS GIVEN

The first step in the painting operation is that of thoroughly cleaning the car. The car should be placed upon trestles and the wheels removed. Wash the body thoroughly with soap and water, making sure that all grime and grease is removed. For the chassis and running gear, use a mixture of about three parts of turpentine and one of kerosene. Apply this liquid liberally, using an old paint brush, and give it some time to soak in well before attempting to scrape off. It may take several applications before the dirt and grime can be removed. At times the accumulations are so hard that more drastic measures must be used; in which case a fairly strong solution of washing soda and hot water will prove effective. After the chassis and underparts have been cleaned thoroughly wash with soap and water so as to remove all traces of the removers. The finish of the car may now be inspected for cracks, scales, bare spots or other defects.

If the varnish and paint coats show cracks which penetrate to the bare metal, or if the old paint shows a tendency to scale off, it will be necessary to remove the entire paint structure. Paint removers can be purchased or made. A good paint remover can be made of a half-and-half mixture of benzole and acetone and will cost about one dollar for a gallon. Apply the paint remover with an old brush, allow to soak in for about a half an hour, and then scrape down with a putty knife. If the paint has not been entirely removed by the first application, apply enough additional coats of the remover until only the base metal remains. The metal surface must now be thoroughly washed down to remove all traces of the remover. The benzole mixture must be washed away with wood alcohol, while the commercial removers often require gasoline.—Automobile Digest.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS TAKEN INTO FORD HOSPITAL

Disabled world war veterans of Michigan have welcomed the offer recently made by the Henry Ford hospital and already more than fifty are undergoing treatment at the big institution.

All of the veterans are admitted in the same manner as private patients and are treated on exactly the same basis. They are entitled to and receive the same quality of service and are distributed in the various units in the hospital according to the availability of rooms.

The first thought was to open a special unit for these men, but the hospital officials on consideration felt the men would be better satisfied if they were distributed throughout the hospital with the other patients and accordingly this plan was carried out.

Arrangements for opening the hospital services free of any charge to all disabled veterans of Michigan needing treatment were made a few weeks ago at a meeting between Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, Henry Ford, Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, and Dr. Harkness, state commander of the American Legion.

The arrangements for the care of the disabled veterans continue in effect until December 31, 1923. If at that time Congress has not passed necessary legislation to afford hospitalization of ex-service men the matter will come up for further discussion and the agreement renewed for another definite period.

The ex-service men are admitted following recommendation by the welfare office of the American Legion in Detroit.

Another arrangement has also been effected between the Legion and the Henry Ford hospital whereby in extreme cases of destitute families of former service men their children needing hospitalization will be treated when designated by the Legion office.

WHEN TESTING THE STORAGE BATTERY

In addition to the hydrometer for testing the electrolyte, the volt meter, ammeter and cadmium test set are also used. The volt and ammeter are electrical measuring instruments; the latter being of great service in testing electrical circuits. The range of these instruments should be as follows: The volt-meter should have a scale not much higher than the highest reached in starting and lighting circuits, while the ammeter should read up to thirty amperes. The ammeter can be used for determining the current consumed by the lamps and that entering the battery from the generator during charging, to see whether they are normal. This also enables the operator to charge at the proper rate and also to make discharge tests. In either case it may be inserted right at the battery, by taking the connector from one of the battery terminals and connecting the ammeter between the terminal and the battery. Various types of instruments may be had, but the type permitting a direct connection is perferred to avoid the escape of current through grounds, etc.

The volt-meter cannot be connected into a circuit, but must always be connected between the two terminals of a source of current or a current consumption device. Voltage is the pressure of the current and it can readily be understood that the pressure which the battery exerts in delivering current and the pressure required to force current into the battery indicate the state of charge of the battery or of any one cell, should the test be forcused on one cell. While the hydometer is a convenient means of testing a battery, it is evident that a completely discharged battery may have received what is termed a drug-store charge, that is, the battery may have been brought up to the specified gravity reading by merely adding acid, and the battery readings, therefore, give a check on the gravity readings. In other words, the voltage reading discloses the doped battery by its lack of voltage.—Automobile Digest.

A good automobile headlight will throw most of its light on the road when properly adjusted. The road will be brightly lighted for several hundred feet. Too long have the grown-ups monopolized the automobile. Now the babies are to have their innings, according to a report recently received from London. Drive a Kissel and you will learn more in a mile than we could tell you in an hour.

It will not take many miles to demonstrate to you why the Kissel was able to accomplish the remarkable feat of climbing from Merced into the Yosemite in high gear recently.

Such a test, as you well know, meant many uphill miles of tortuous curves and gruelling 10% to 18% grades. In all motoring history no car had ever conquered that climb in high gear before. They said it couldn't be done—until Kissel power and Kissel stamina made it possible. You will easily appreciate why this custom-built car won through, once you ride behind its wheel yourself.

MANY MOTORISTS OF THIS SECTION ARE PLANNING TRANSCONTINENTAL TRIPS DURING PRESENT SEASON

Nothing Is So Important As the Condition of Roads; As Highways Are, So Is Your Trip; So Make Sure That Things Are "Right" Before You Start

Hundreds of motorists of Southern California are intending to make a trip "back home" this spring and summer. Many have already started for Eastern points, others are willing to wait until a later date, when the roads will be in a much better condition, but all of them are "headed east."

To the transcontinental traveler, the big question is, "How are the roads?". The condition of the highways plays a big part in the jaunt overland. If they are generally in a poor condition, there is a big chance of the motorist having "hard luck" all the way over. If they are good, it will be smooth sailing. Therefore, the fellow who is going from coast to coast will, if he is wise, look well into the conditions of the roads before starting. He will make sure that they are in fairly good condition before leaving the family fireside. With the roads in good shape and the "old boat" working pretty, the trip promises to be an enjoyable one.

For the benefit of the motorists of Glendale, and there are quite a number, who intend making the trip eastward during the coming weeks, the Auto Section of the Glendale Press has, in conjunction with the touring department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, compiled the following "dope" on the Lincoln highway, which is reached from Los Angeles via the Midland trail at Salt Lake City; the National Old Trails route, which runs east from Los Angeles, and the Bankhead Borderland route, which runs through Yuma, Phoenix, El Paso, etc.

NATIONAL OLD TRAILS

Los Angeles to Victorville, 104 Miles

Paved.

Victorville to Barstow, 38 Miles

Good graded dirt road, desert type.

Barstow to Needles, 166 Miles

Good to a point 7 miles beyond Newberry Springs, and rough through Ludlow to Amboy. It is advisable to use the north road in leaving Ludlow. Good from Amboy to Needles, and many stretches of oiled macadam will be encountered.

Needles to Kingman, 70 Miles

Peach Springs to Seligman, 36 Miles

Seligman to Williams, 46 miles

New graded gravel highway, excellent condition.

Williams to Grand Canyon, 74 Miles

This routing more or less follows the Santa Fe branch line to the canyon, and on account of considerable improvement done it offers fair traveling conditions the entire distance. The condition of this road allows making the 74 miles in approximately two and one-half hours.

Maine Station to Grand Canyon, 64 Miles

Flagstaff to Winslow, 65 miles

New graded road for 23 miles. One detour necessary around bridge construction near Winona Station. Upon reaching Young's Canyon, old road, rocky in character and which is rather slow, prevails to Canyon Diablo. From the latter point a wonderful road is had past Meteor Mountain to within 14 miles of Winslow. Due to the numerous holes made by heavy winter travel, it is necessary to cross and re-cross the highway in numerous places.

Winslow to Holbrook, 34 Miles

This is a recently constructed gravel road; the distance of 34 miles can be made in one hour by the averaged driver.

Holbrook to Gallup, 105 Miles

Generally fair between these points.

Gallup to Los Lunas, 142 Miles

Very poor between Laguna and Grants.

Holbrook to Springerville, 100 Miles

A new grade has just been completed through the Petrified Forest to St. John. Leaving this point it is necessary to detour 17 miles to the northwest, as a new road is being built up the canyon to the summit. From the end of this detour completed highway grade in excellent condition is had to Springerville.

Springerville to Socorro, 152 Miles

For the first 57 miles out of Springerville considerably rough going will be had, but after getting beyond Quemada, continuing throug Datil to Magdalena and Socorro, wonderful road is encountered, in places being 30 feet wide. The Blue Canyon into Socorro is in excellent condition.

Socorro to Albuquerque, 87 Miles

Excellent conditions prevail through Belen and Los Lunas to Isleta—being a trifle chucky from this point to within 7 miles of Albuquerque, where pavement is had through town to a point 10.2 miles north.

Albuquerque to Santa Fe, 66 Miles

Excellent gravel surfaced highway will be found through Bernalillo and Domingo to the foot of the La Bajada grade. The remaining distance over the grade and into Santa Fe is in wonderful condition.

Santa Fe to Las Vegas, 75 Miles

The first 15 miles of road is excellent, being of a gravel surface, but considerable construction work is being done the remaining distance to Rowe. Fast time is possible after leaving Rowe over the new road from Fullton and San Jose to Las Vegas.

Las Vegas to Trinidad, 136 Miles

Fair conditions prevail through Onova, thence new grade in excellent shape to Watrous. Old road rather rough to Shoemaker, thence excellent gravel surfaced road through Wagon Mound and across the flats to Springer. From Springer to French necessitates a number of temporary detours, due to the building of a new grade, and from this latter town a 17-mile detour is had which misses Maxwell City and come in on the Taos road 19 miles west of Raton. The remaining distance into Raton can be classed as boulevard. From Raton to Trinidad consists of an excellent road and the distance can be very comfortably made in one hour.

Trinidad to Lamar, 148 Miles

Well graded gravel surfaced road will be found east through Delhi, La Junta, Las Anmas to Lamar. The run can very easily made in from seven to eight hours.

Lamar to Kansas City, 561 Miles

Entering Kansas, the same type of road is had across the entire state, with an occasional stretch of oiled macadam or concrete. From Dodge City through Kingsley to Larned the road can be classed as boulevard, well graded and well maintained. This is also true through Great Bend, Lyons and McPherson. Some concrete road will be encountered near Conway. An excellent road is had through Marion and Council Grove to Scranton. This road follows section lines practically the entire distance, and having a gravel surface is little affected by rain. This is also true through Baldwin City to Olathe, where oiled macadam is encountered and is had the remaining distance into Kansas City.

MIDLAND TRAIL AND LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Los Angeles to Mojave, 104 Miles

Pavement is continuous from Los Angeles by way of Mint Canyon to Palmdale, Lancaster and Mojave.

Mojave to Big Pine, 161 Miles

Excellent desert road for the

SUPREMACY OF THE KISSEL IS PROVEN

The word "Kissel" stands the world over for automobile supremacy. The Kissel is a car that has been tried and found 100 per cent perfect and efficient. Its beauty is not surpassed in the automobile world today. It is the one car that has many friends, but no enemies.

Nelson & Burr, agents for the Kissel in Glendale and surrounding territory, are more than pleased with the reception their Kissel announcement received in Glendale. A number of sales have been made during the past several weeks and each purchaser has nothing but praise for this wonderful machine.

Speaking of the Kissel's wonderful features Mr. Nelson, this week, emphasized the following points:

Motor size—Six cylinder, 3 5-16 inches bore, 5⅛ inches stroke, 61 H. P. at 2300 R. P. M. Dynamometer test.

Pistons—Of annealed cast iron special design, light in weight, accurately ground to dimensions and selected of the same weight to a limit of plus or minus one-eighth oz. in the same motor.

Wrist pins—1 5-16 inch diameter, hardened and ground, fitted in piston bosses and held in place by a special tapered end lock screw. Wrist pin bushings of "Non-Gran" bronze.

Crankshaft—Is a drop forging, made of high grade, .40 to .50 per cent carbon steel, heat-treated. Shaft has an overall length of 34 5-16 inches, a front bearing 2½ inches diameter by 2 5-32 inches long, a center bearing 2½ inches diameter by 2½ inches long, a rear bearing 2½ inches diameter by 2 27-32 inches long.

Motor bearings—All crankshaft and connecting rod bearings have "Fahrig" Anti-Friction Metal 90 per cent tin and 10 per cent copper for wearing surface and perforated steel back to give greater strength.

Connecting rods—Have an I-beam cross section, made of 1035 S. A. E. carbon steel, drop forged. The construction of the rod is such to insure stiffness and a solid support for the bearings at the lower end and the bushing at the upper end. All connecting rods are heat-treated.

Valves—Intake valves are of low Tungsten steel; exhaust valves are of Cobalt Chromium Tungsten steel. Valves enclosed with cast aluminum cover, using cork gasket to eliminate oil leaks.

(a) When the motor is pulling its maximum load, or using its full horse-power, with the throttle wide open, the new Kissel automatic oil control provides the "maximum oil pressure needed" as well as the necessary "oil supply" to maintain a proper oil film under this full load condition.

Thermostatic control—Specially designed by Kissel engineers and made integral part of Cylinder head. It controls temperature of water at 150 to 170 degrees F. and obtains following results:

1. Better thermal efficiency of the engine. 2. Less friction horse power. 3. Engine warms up quicker in cold weather. 4 More power. 5. Less gasoline consumption. 6. Less crank case dilution. 7. Less fouling of spark plugs.

Carburetor—A 1¼ inch Stromberg carburetor, bolted direct to the cylinder casting, is used. On this carburetor the auxiliary air valve is eliminated and all the air entering the carburetor is heated, thus insuring a better mixture in cold weather.

Ignition—The Remy combined lighting and ignition system is used. Current for ignition is furnished by a lead cell storage battery and the lighting generator. The battery floats on the line after the generator cuts in.

Lighting—Current for lighting is furnished by a 6-volt lead cell storage battery and the Remy combined lighting and ignition generator. The battery floats on the line after the generator gets up to speed and the relay cuts in, connecting the generator to the system.

Starting—A 6-volt Remy starting motor with a Bendix screw drive to flywheel is used for starting. The 6-volt lead cell storage battery furnishes the current for starting. Switch for starting is mounted on the foot board at the front end of the body and operated by foot pressure.

Storage battery—A Willard storage battery of 117.5 ampers hour capacity is used, the jar of which is strong and serviceable. High quality lead alloyed with antimony, and the purest of oxide are used in the construction of the battery plates. Thread-rubber insulation.

Clutch—A dry disc type is used, mounted integral with transmission. Pedal system is mounted on clutch shift shaft. Pedals are easily adjusted and light foot pressure only required to work clutch. Clutch pedals are bushed with graphite bronze bearings, to insure quietness and ease of operation.

Transmission—The transmission is selective type, 3 forward speeds and one reverse. The main shaft is mounted on large annular ball bearings. Transmission gears are of drop forged nickel steel, heat-treated.

INDUSTRY MAKES MAMMOTH STRIDES

The automotive industry continues to forge ahead of all other industries, according to figures recently prepared. In 1922 automotives reached the vast sum of nearly $3,000,000,000 and with exception of agriculture this industry is now far above all others.

The estimated value of the 1922 motor vehicle output exceeded $1,400,000,000; tires $675,000,000, and parts and accessories more than $2,750,000,000. Hardly more than 80,000 dealers, and others, distribute this huge business as against nearly 200,000 grocers whose stocks may not reach the automotive figure. — Automobile Digest.

REPLACEMENT OF RINGS

When replacing rings the best fitting rings should be used at the top, so that the oil below cannot be consumed by the high temperature of the exploding gas. The replacement of the rings is the reverse of the removal.

SAFEGUARD IS NOW THROWN AROUND USED CAR

"It's a rather big undertaking to explain just why or when an automobile becomes a used car," remarked Lyman P. Clark, of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado St., who is now conducting a three-day sale of used cars. For instance, suppose a man owns a new car, drives it a few thousand miles and then decides that he wants a larger car, or an enclosed car, or a smaller car, and trades it in. This fellow's car is comparatively new up to the last day he owns it, but the next day the same car with the same engine, tires and roadability becomes a used car when it is offered for sale by the dealer.

"An interesting indication of the evolution of automobile merchandising is reflected in the fact that today every element of safety surrounds the purchase of good used automobiles from established dealers," asserted Mr. Clark. "The used car is just as much a part of the stock of the auto dealer as his new cars, his tires, accessories or parts. A large percentage of new car sales involve the acceptance of good used cars, and in many cases, dealers overhaul the cars and in any event make certain that they will deliver satisfactory transportation to the buyers.

"Aside from the ability of the good used car to deliver thousands of miles of travel, the best inducement the established dealer can offer the prospective buyer of a used car is perfect contentment with his investment, for he looks forward to the time when this customer may wish to buy another car.

FOR PROPER COOLING

To secure efficient cooling it is necessary to that the water be kept circulating freely through the cooling system and that the air be kept flowing through the radiator.

AUTO TRIP TAKES MOTORIST OVER 'HOG'S BACK'

boat" is working right. One particular point on this road that has justly been given considerable publicity is the "hog's back." This is a winding, steep bit of road possibly half a mile long. It can be easily made by the average machine, and little trouble will be experienced in making any of the grades on this mountain trip.

Camp Baldy is one that will bring the tired business man back to his "old self" as quickly as any point in the country. A person can have just as much activity as he craves. There are all kinds of jaunts that can be taken out of this camp—to Cow canyon, to the old mines, to the hermit's cabin—and a hundred other places. Then, too, the motorist can enjoy a game of tennis, croquet or the like or may lope around beneath the shade of the wide-spreading oak trees. During the summer there is dancing each evening on a good floor which is almost completely covered by the branches of the oaks.

Camp Baldy is an ideal mountain camp. The return trip can be easily made from Glendale in a day—by starting early and returning late—but it will prove more enjoyable if a stay over night is made. If the motorist is carrying his own camping equipment he will find many places where he can pitch his tent.

In order that the return trip may in no way prove tiresome the motorist will be directed along an almost entirely different route from that taken while going out. The canyon road will, of course, have to be followed to Uplands. After arriving in Uplands the motorist will start west along the Foothill boulevard and continue westward to a point a couple of miles west of the entrance to San Dimas canyon, where the road leading to the town of San Dimas will be encountered. Continue through San Dimas and on to Covina, thence along the El Monte-Covina highway to the city of El Monte, thence on through Savannah and to San Gabriel and on along Huntington drive into Los Angeles. From Los Angeles take any of the routes to Glendale.

The start home, if this route is followed, should be made not later than 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This will result in the motorist covering most of the homeward trip by daylight.

ALIGNMENT SAVES TIRES

Careful attention to proper wheel alignment will save the motorist many dollars in extra tire service. Tires on the wheels that are out of alignment do not revolve straight forward as they should, but sidewise-motion grinds rubber from the tread, and the effect is the same as if the tire was held against the side of a grindstone, and turned so as to grind down the tread on the entire circumference. A toein of a quarter of an inch should be allowed on the front wheel. This is to neutralize their tendency to spread while in motion. The true running qualities of each wheel can be determined by placing a stationary point close to the wood felloe of the wheel; the place between the point and the falloe should be uniform when the wheel is revolving. Otherwise it is out of alignment. The result of wheel misalignment can usually be detected by the appearance of the tread which is worn down on one side and shows a sharp shoulder.

OLDS' SUPREMACY IS SHOWN BY COMPARISON

C. H. Hunter, the local Oldsmobile dealer says this is not a slogan, but a fact. For comparison—the average wheel base on all four-cylinder cars in the Olds price class is 110 inches, while the Olds has 115 inches. The average on all fours is 5½-inch frames, while the Olds has 7-inch frame with 15 inch cross members, one of them 8 inches wide and the other 5 inches, heavily braced.

The average for spring shackle bolts is 5-8 inch and the Olds four is 3-4 inch. The average for king pins on front axle bolts is 11-16 inch, while the Olds four has one inch.

Mr. Hunter says you can see that the Olds does win by comparison. As for comparing power, Mr. Hunter says all you have to do is to ride in an Olds four and it does its own talking.

The Olds agency has a comparison sheet which is quite interesting and may be had for the asking at 208 West Broadway.

BIG FEES FOR AUTO TRUCKS

License fees up to $250 a year are now imposed on motor trucks which carry enormous loads over the costly modern highways in Indiana. A new law limits the total weight for truck and load to 12 tons in that state.

UTILITY TRUCK OF 'CHEV.' MAKES HIT

Great as has been the growth of automobile transportation of people, it is probably less than what is to come in the field of merchandise transportation.

The greatest problem of the business world is merchandise transportation. Successful business men are those who keep step with progress. Consider the most successful men in your community—have they not motorized their business?

Passenger automobiles now carry passengers more miles per year than the railroads. Movement of goods by motor trucks has not as yet attained the annual tonnage of freight movement by railroads, but probably, were it possible to compute all the produce moved by farmers and the merchandise delivered by merchants, the total added to haulage by heavy trucks would equal the freight total by rail.

For commercial uses demand may be roughly divided into three main classes: (1) Slow, heavy-duty trucks for hauling stone, sand, metals, household goods, and general merchandise in loads of about 5 tons; (2) fast, medium-heavy trucks designed to carry one to two tons at 20 to 30 miles per hour; and (3) speedy, light delivery cars, for light haulage of milk, market produce, etc., in the country, or, when equipped with standard commercial bodies, for the delivery of merchandise by retail merchants.

The new utility express truck is designed for leadership in class two.

It is the lowest-priced quality truck in the world capable of fast, heavy-duty service. It hauls heavy loads quickly and economically. It is reliable. Long grades and deep mud are mastered by it without racing the motor or boiling the water because the 3-speed transmission provides correct gear ratios to meet any condition of load or road.

It provides fast, heavy-duty service at the lowest operating and maintenance cost. It leads in high mileage on gasoline oil and tires, living up fully to the Chevrolet reputation for unequaled economy.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

Shows How to Adjust and Tune up Motor for the Season's Running.

By E. H. SCOTT

This article gives practical, step-by-step instructions to the motorist who wants to reduce his repair bills, get more power from his motor, and eliminate trouble during the coming touring season.

The Gasoline System and Carburetor

When you have trouble in the gasoline system, it is well to remember that IT IS RARELY THE TROUBLE LIES IN THE CARBURETOR ADJUSTMENT. This trouble can only occur when an adjustment loosens up, a VERY RARE occurrence. Do not under any circumstances start tinkering with the Carburetor or alter its adjustment, unless you are certain that the Carburetor requires adjusting. If the fault does lie in the gasoline system, it is usually caused either by dirt or lint clogging up one of the gasoline screens or getting into the spraying nozzle, water in the gasoline, loose connections at the Vacuum Tank, or an air leak in the Intake Manifold, all troubles that can be prevented from occurring very easily.

SEE THAT HOLE IN CAP IS NOT BLOCKED UP TO VACUUM TANK
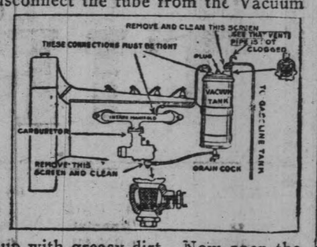
Gasoline Tank
REMOVE SCREEN AND CLEAN
DRAIN PLUG
SEDIMENT AND WATER COLLECTS HERE

At the bottom of the gasoline tank there is a drain plug, and there is generally a strainer on the gasoline line also, to keep the dirt and sediment from being drawn up to the Vacuum Tank. Take out the drain plug and draw off all gasoline in the tank. This will remove any water or sediment that may have collected. If there is a strainer at the gasoline tank, remove it and see that it is clear. Next make certain that the small hole in the filler cap on the gasoline tank is open. If it is blocked up, it will cause a vacuum to be created in the tank and prevent the gasoline from flowing through to the Carburetor freely.

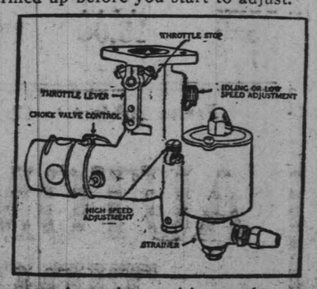
From the tank in the rear, the gasoline is drawn up to the Vacuum Tank by the suction of the engine. At the top of the Vacuum Tank you will find three tubes, one leading to the tank at the rear, one leading to the Intake Manifold, and one small tube called the Vent pipe which has the end open. Disconnect the tube from the Vacuum tank that leads to the tank in the rear, and blow through it with an air pump. Next take out the small screen at the connection where the gasoline enters the Vacuum Tank, and see that it is clear. See that the connections on the suction tube that leads from the Vacuum Tank to the Intake Manifold are tight. If either of these connections are loose, the Vacuum Tank will not operate properly. Examine the end of the Vent pipe to see that it is not blocked up with greasy dirt. Now open the drain cock or plug at the bottom of the Vacuum Tank and draw off about half a pint of gasoline to remove any sediment that may have collected at the bottom of the tank.



Open the drain cock or take out the drain plug at the bottom of the Float Chamber on the Carburetor, and drain off some gasoline. If there is a strainer at the connection where the gasoline enters the Carburetor, take it out and see that it is clear. After cleaning out the gasoline system as described, inspect to make certain that all connections are tight and are not leaking at any point. This inspection of the gasoline system should be made at the beginning of Spring, then again at the beginning of the cold weather.

During the cold weather, most Carburetors are adjusted to deliver a fairly rich mixture, but with the approach of the warm weather, the Carburetor can be adjusted to run with a leaner mixture. If possible follow the directions given in the instruction book you received with your car, or better still, have it adjusted by a good mechanic or the service station. If, however, it is necessary for you to adjust the Carburetor yourself, and expert assistance is not available, proceed as follows:

Before you attempt to adjust the Carburetor, test to see that the joints between the Intake Manifold and Carburetor are tight, and make sure that each cylinder is firing regularly. It is impossible to adjust a Carburetor that is not firing on all cylinders. Always let the engine run until it is well warmed up before you start to adjust.



The illustration shows a typical Carburetor. To adjust the Carburetor, first fully retard the Spark lever and Throttle until the engine turns over slowly. If it will not run slow enough when the throttle lever on the steering wheel is closed all the way down, turn in the stop screw you will notice on the throttle lever on the Carburetor, to bring the engine down to the desired idling speed, and if there is a low speed adjustment on the Carburetor, turn it in or out until the engine runs slowly and evenly.

Now set the Spark lever in the normal running position, and open up the throttle just enough to keep the engine running at a moderate speed. Next if high speed adjustment has lock nut, loosen it, then turn down screw until engine begins to lose speed and shows signs of stopping and pops back in the Carburetor, indicating a very weak or lean mixture, then turn the adjusting screw back, listening to the engine as it picks up speed, stopping when further turning of the screw does not increase the speed of the engine. Now advance the spark lever right up, and open the throttle wide open for just a second or so. The engine should respond instantly, and at the same time the smoke from the exhaust should be practically colorless (blue or white smoke is caused by too much oil). If the smoke is BLACK and smells strongly of gasoline, then the adjustment must be turned back until not a trace of black smoke comes from the exhaust when you open the throttle wide for a second or so. When you have the correct adjustment, tighten the lock nut so that the adjusment will not shift.

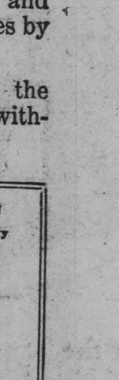
205-207 SOUTH BRAND — GLENDALE



SNOWS OF WINTER ARE RAPIDLY MELTING

trip can be made on foot or with saddle stock from Mammoth.

Another day's trip is to Sheldon and Duck Lakes. Sheldon Lakes, two miles south of Lake Mary, are full of fish.

South of Sheldon Lakes one mile are a chain of small lakes that have no fish. Three miles farther south Mammoth Canyon Pass is crossed and the trail drops down to Duck Lake, which is full of Golden Trout. To the right over a small ridge is Connell Lake, which is full of Steelhead.

From Duck Lake there is a view of Upper Fish Creek, a very wild, rough country, with good fishing and plenty of deer and bear and some grouse and mountain quail.

From Fish Creek the good deer hunting country on Deer and Mono Creeks is accessible.

A fine trip for next day is to the Devil Postpile and the San Joaquin River. Taking the trail near Lake Mary, Horseshoe Lake is passed. Off to the left out of sight lies McLeod Lake, where Golden Trout are plentiful. Three miles beyond Horseshoe Lake the trail goes over Mammoth Pass, the lowest pass through the Sierras for 200 miles north or south. From here the trail leads down through tall red fir timber to Reds Meadow, off to the north of which lies Cher Lake, a deep lake surrounded by meadows. There are lots of pond lillies in this lake. From here the left hand trail leads to the soda springs on the San Joaquin River, a good place for lunch. Get out your lunch and sugar and make a lemon soda with a real kick.

Continuing on down the river the Devil Postpile is soon reached. This national monument with its great piles of hexagonal basalt rocks is a remarkable national curiosity.

On down the river three miles is the Rainbow Falls of the San Joaquin. Here the entire rim makes a perpendicular drop of 76 feet and hits with a thundering roar that can be heard for miles. Were these falls more accessible they would be as celebrated as some of those of the Yosemite. As it is, the road to Lake George now makes this part of the San Joaquin easily assessible in a one-day trip.

An interesting motor trip is to the Earthquake Fault and Shohank Pass. The Earthquake Fault, four miles from Mammoth, is a crack in the earth which can be traced across the country over to Mono Lake, passing through three crater lakes and four craters. At this particular point the crack is from six to twenty feet wide and about fifty feet deep to the snow, with which it is filled. There are two air holes through the snow, one where the air is constantly sucking down and another where the air comes up from below in a strong constant current. This crack is almost bottomless below the snow, as a man was let down 450 feet on a rope through one of the air holes and found no bottom. The snow at this point was about fifty feet thick.

Four miles beyond the fault the end of the road is reached in the Shohank Pass. From here there is a grand view to the north and west, the Minarettes looming up across the canyon of the San Joaquin River.

With a pack outfit all the wonderful country at the head of the San Joaquin river may be covered from Mammoth, or one may leave the automobile on the summit of Shohank Pass and make the trip on foot, carrying food and bedding. The route to Shohank Pass is the same as on the previous trip.

At the end of the road the trail to Agnew Meadows is taken, crossing the San Joaquin river and thence up Shadow Creek. Shadow Creek is almost a continual waterfall from the time it leaves the lake until it enters the river. Shadow Lake is one of the most beautiful places in the Sierras. Rimmed in by mountains it gets its name from the shadows these peaks cast on the waters of the lake. Here you will find the Golden Trout again, big ones that weigh up to three pounds, but it takes a fly with red in it to land them.

Again "hitting the trail," as you cross over the summit toward Garnet Lake, a wonderful view of Agnews Lake in the floor of the San Joaquin Canyon is obtained. There are plenty of Rainbow Trout in this lake.

Passing Garnet Lake, Thousand Island Lake is the next fine sheet of water. This lake, with its hundreds of rocky islands, lies at the foot of Mount Ritter, Mount Bonner and Mount Dana. These peaks are betwen 11,500 and 12,000 feet elevation and are only a short distance from the Yosemite Park boundary.

The return trip to Mammoth may be made by the Big T. Trail, by San Joaquin Peak and the Juniper Forest. The Juniper is one of the oldest living trees, but is of very slow growth. While this trip can be hurriedly made, one can well spend a week in this wonderful region of lakes and peaks. It is only by constantly restocking the streams and lakes of this region that the fishing can be kept good and this work is done through cooperation of the State Fish and Game Commission, the Forest Service and local settlers. Within the last few years scores of unstocked lakes have been stocked to trout by the Forest Service.

A fine one-day motor trip is hrough the pine forests of the Deadman country to Big Springs at the headwaters of the Owens river, near the Thompson cattle range.

The return may be made by Whitmores Tub, where a good hot bath may be obtained.

Mono Lake Legion

Adjacent to Mono Lake on the Mono Forest is another wonderful recreation region. Leaving Mammoth the highway traverses miles of open pine timbered hills, crosses a low divide and drops toward Mono Lake, passing the Mono Craters on the right. These craters are quite interesting from a geological standpoint, the entire surface formation of the surrounding region is a pumice sand.

Summer home sites may be rented near the lake and along Rush Creek.

This beautiful lake is the home of the Loch Leven Trout and fine catches are made. Here is one of the power houses of the Southern Sierras Power company, which is developing other power projects in this region.

From a camp at Silver Lake interesting side trips may be made. One is up Rush Creek to Lower Gem Lake, Gem Lake and Upper Gem Lake, three artificial lakes, created by the construction of concrete dams.

Just above the power house on Silver Lake are the beautiful Rush Creek Falls. Since the Power company has been piping the water from the upper lakes these falls only run when the snow is melting in the spring or after a heavy rain.

Another interesting side trip is up Reversed Creek to Gull and Summit Lakes. Gull Lake, three miles from camp, is small but deep and has some big Rainbow and Loch Leven Trout. One must fish deep to catch them, however.

Less than a mile further is Summit, or June Lake, which also has big trout of the same varieties.

From a slight divide above Summit Lake an excellent view of Mono Lake is obtained and by the moving dust clouds in Mono Lake Valley it is nearly always possible to spot the bands of sheep that graze there in summer.

Leaving Silver Lake we backtrack to the highway at the Farrington Ranch and take the left-hand road four miles to Little Walker Lake, a body of water that is full of Rainbow Trout and that is seldom fished. This lake lies at the foot of Bloody Canyon, where the Yosemite trail used to go up before the Tioga road was built. It is a two-day trip by trail from here to the Yosemite.

From Little Walker Lake, Mono Lake is visible. This lake covers 100,000 acres, its waters contain about 10 per cent solids (salts), and it has no fish. Duck hunting is good on the lake in fall and winter, but if the ducks have been long at the lake their flesh has a strong taste. To see the full moon rise over Mono Lake in summer is a sight never to be forgotten, and many tourists to this region so plan their trips as to be there at the time of the full moon. On one of the islands in Mono Lake is an expensive dwelling and Angora goats are raised on both of the islands. While this lake has no known outlet, its waters have risen nearly twenty feet since this region was first settled.

From Mono Lake the tourist may travel north by Bridgeport and Walker River to Lake Tahoe, or go west over Tioga Pass and through Yosemite.

Turning west at Mono Lake the road passes the Leevining Creek Ranger Station and the public camp ground there maintained by the Forest Service. This camp is always occupied and the campers find good fishing in adjacent Leevining Creek. A short distance above the station the road begins to climb the famous Tioga Pass grade and Leevining Creek Falls soon come into view. Near the summit the road skirts Tioga Lake and we are getting pretty well up to the timber line. Above the lake and along the creek are some beautiful camping spots that are largely used in summer.

A short distance farther and the Yosemite Park boundary is crossed at an elevation of nearly 10,000 feet. From here the road drops down to Tuolumne Meadows and its fine camping places. Along here in the Tuolumne river is fine fishing and farther on comes Tenaya Lake, a beauty spot. From here one can motor into the Yosemite Valley in a few hours.

Here is the very latest road information with regard to the highway from Glendale to Bishop, Inyo county, from which point most of the fishing parties enter the High Sierras:

Glendale to Mojave, 104 Miles

Paved highway is continuous via Saugus, Mint Canyon, Palmdale, Lancaster to Mojave, although a short detour is necessary around bridge construction just beyond Newhall.

Mojave to Bishop, 179 Miles

Fair desert road prevails from Mojave by way of Cinco Station to Redrock Canyon, with fair dirt road through the canyon to Little Lake. Desert type of road again prevails through Olancha to Lone Pine. Excellent dirt road from Lone Pine to Independence, Big Pine and Bishop. A short stretch of pavement will be found between Independence and Big Pine.

BATTERY TESTING

The most practical method of testing is to subject the battery to the same conditions to which it will be subjected while in service. Figuring the starting amperes of the average 6-volt system at from 125 to 200 amperes and the 12-volt system from 60 to 100 amperes, it will be seen that at least such amperages must be drawn from the battery in order to offer a check on the ability of the battery to do its work. The various discharge sets on the market subject the battery to these conditions and make apparent to the battery worker how the battery will act under service. Essentially they consist simply of a rheostat which will regulate the amount of current drawn; an ammeter, which will tell the amount of current drawn; a voltmeter, which will show the voltage drop and a suitable pair of clamps or terminals to connect to the terminals of the battery. Where any great amount of battery work is done, such sets are an absolute necessity. With them, the battery may be subjected to a high rate discharge; it may be subjected to a long, slow discharge in order to determine if the battery comes up to the capacity specifications of the manufacturer.—Automobile Digest.

SAFETY FIRST

Throw out the clutch when approaching a railroad crossing. This will eliminate all noises about the car, making it possible to listen for the sound of an approaching train. In coasting, however, do not allow the engine to idle so slowly that there is danger of its stalling.

WELFARE SECTION IS MAINTAINED BY REO

"Paternalism has long been a stumbling block in the road of social service," says Mr. White of Harry E. White, Inc., commenting upon the aid given employes by various manufacturers.

"The Reo Motor Car company long ago realized the need of some organized unit to carry on systematic cooperation with the employe without 'meddling' in his personal affairs or assuming anything like a paternal attitude toward him. The Reo management recognized in each employe a fellow citizen and a brother man and took care in the development of the 'welfare department' to avoid patronizing him or seeming in any way to be autocratic about giving advice or demanding of him anything which, as his employer, the company had no jurisdiction over.

"As the welfare department now stands, its activities are varied and cover a great scope which is gradually increasing. The superintendent of the division takes personal charge of loans to employes needing emergency help because of hospital bills, fires and such calamities. He also furnishes free notary service and in certain cases procures legal advice. Under his general supervision all the other welfare activities are carried on.

"The Reo employes' magazine, 'The Reo Spirit,' is published monthly under his direction with the assistance of the social director who also is art editor of the magazine. Over five thousand copies of this peppy little periodical are printed at each issue and carry the news and gossip of the factory to each employe and to the branches in distant cities and acts as a binding force to draw all together into a great Reo family.

"The social director contracts for moving pictures and other entertainments for the club house where two regular entertainments are provided weekly besides numerous specials during the winter season.

"The big auditorium, which seats over 1700 is always packed with employes and their families to whom the entertainments are all free.

"During the winter season a bowling league is organized, consisting of 30 teams which keep the four alleys roaring every evening. A pool tournament is simultaneously going on in the next room. Employes so disposed find ample material of great variety on the reading table to improve their minds or while away the time. A good reference library may be used by the employes.

"During the summer season, baseball leagues are formed consisting of ten teams playing soft ball and ten playing hard ball. Volley ball is a favorite and horse shoes and quoits engage their quota at the noon hour.

"In the factory at the noon hour, meeting places are provided and hundreds of men find pleasure and profit in attending lectures, showing pictures, and a great variety of entertainments from mouth organ contests and mock trials to concerts by the wonderful Reo band."

PROPER CARE OF CAR

To be sure that a car will give dependable service it should be inspected thoroughly at least once a week. This inspection should include: Seeing that the tires are inflated to the prescribed pressure; inspecting the steering apparatus to make sure that all connections are tight; testing the battery, and filling with distilled water. In addition be sure that the car has the proper amount of oil in the crank case, and that the cooling system is filled with water. The instructions for lubrication should be followed very carefully, as the efficient performance and the life of the whole machine depends upon proper oiling and greasing more than on any other one thing.

MUCH HIGHWAY WORK

More than $180,000,000 will be spent this year on making new highways or improving old ones in eight of the Central States: Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

The horse is a noble animal—except when you back him to win and he fails to show in front.

CHANDLER GOES TO CAPTAIN FOR SERVICES

When the baseball fans of Rochester, N. Y., presented an automobile to the captain of their league-leading club, it was fitting that they should choose a car symbolic of his masterful performance on the diamond—a car powered by a motor that was "Built to Master a Mountain, to the man who is master batsman of the International League.

Captain Fred Merkle, the former New York National League baseball star, is the idol of Rochester fans, who have dubbed him "Uncle Fred."

Mayor Clarence D. Van Zandt presented the car to Merkle in behalf of the fans.

With the car Merkle received membership in the Automobile Club of Rochester, insurance policies covering fire and liability, a set of license plate holders, and a book containing testimonial letters.

"Uncle Fred" is a man who believes in deeds rather than words. To show his appreciation he stepped up to the plate and smote the first ball pitched for a clean single to center. It was the twenty-fourth consecutive game in which he made one or more safe hits.

Just as the Pikes Peak motor is credited with mastering the high altitudes of difficult climbs, so has "Uncle Fred" Merkle reached the highest mark in his league as a batsman, his average being close to the 500 mark.

They say that a chain is as strong as its weakest link. The Rochester baseball team, like the Chandler car that was presented to its captain, appears to have no weak links. It "stands the gaff" and leads the league by a wide margin, due in no small measure to Merkle's powerful hitting. So, too, has the sturdy chassis of the Chandler stood up unfalteringly under the marvelous power of the Pikes Peak motor.

"Is it possible to build a rear axle that will stand the strain put upon it by so powerful an engine?" is a question sometimes asked concerning the motor that was built to master the highest automobile highway in the world.

The answer is found in the remarkable record of last year. The redesigned Chandler rear axle had a 100 per cent perfect record in 1922. Not a single failure was reported last year nor since the Pikes Peak motor was brought out.

The Candler is handled in Glendale by Smith & Howe, 116 North Maryland avenue.

REMOVING PISTON

A piston from number three cylinder on a Ford can be removed without dismantling the engine by draining the water and the oil from the engine. Then remove the hose connections so that the cylinder head can be removed to give access to the upper end of the piston. Finally, remove the oil pan from the crankcase. Turn the crankshaft so that all crankpins are horizontal and remove number three connecting rod bearing cap. This will permit pushing the piston and connecting rod assembly through the upper end of the cylinder.—Automobile Digest.

THIS WONDERFUL SUBDIVISION, WHICH IS IDEAL FROM EVERY ANGLE, OFFERS PEACE, COMFORT, REST TO BUYER

Hundreds of Homeseekers Staking Their Money and Their Happiness on Rossmoyne, Where Nature Has Been Unusually Kind and Where Contentment Reigns

By JENNIE SWENSON

Perhaps the secret that has been pursed between the lips of the Sphinx during all of the past ages, is the road to happiness.

This is only a conjecture, but it may serve to explain the Egyptian Sphinx signs which point the way to Rossmoyne, "the Happyland." However this may be, Rossmoyne has solved the riddle of happiness for many households, through the subtle influence and satisfaction wielded by proper environment—scenic beauty, healthful location, and general desirability.

Many purchasers already have building plans completed—plans that are especially designed to portray the ideal in the home where happiness is invited before any other guest.

Because of the influx of home builders, who are to start construction on their homes as soon as it is practical, improvements in the first unit of Rossmoyen, which is entirely sold, are well under way, and word is given out that these will be completed by the first of July. All road work, including grading and the laying of curbs and sidewalks, is being done under the direct supervision of the subdividers of Rossmoyne.

All curbs are in, in the first unit, and the road bed is being prepared to receive the heavy macadam paving which will be one of the finest to be found in southern California. Ross boulevard, named for Judge Ross, who purchased the land originally from the Verdugo family, more than 50 years ago, is now under construction, and will form a winding by-way through some of the prettiest Rossmoyne property, taking its course over the "wash," where a cement bridge is being constructed, to be illuminated with ornamental lights.

Along this wash, premanent artistic banks are to be built, and the base lowered. Instead of forming an unsightly portion of the property, it will, in time, be the most attractive.

An important portion of the work of improvement is under way on Glendale avenue. Extending the entire length of the tract, Glendale avenue is to be widened to 50 feet, west of the car tracks, making it a boulevard of more than 100 feet in width. There are not streets in the entire Rossmoyne tract less than 50 feet in width.

Throughout Rossmoyne, an ornamental lighting system is to be installed. This system, though expensive, will add to both the value and appearance of property in this section, inviting more homeseekers within its boundaries. Building restrictions throughout Rossmoyne insure a high class of homes.

One of the most pretentious undertakings in the history of Glendale real estate, is the engineering work necessary in subdividing Rossmoyne. Four crews of engineers are kept constantly at work, preparing the grades, staking out streets, and making improvements in the engineering plans.

Every turn in the road marks progress, whether it is in the first unit, where the work is almost completed, or in the second unit, which is under the process of subdivision. Visualization for the Rossmoyne of tomorrow, peopled with contented Glendale citizens, their homes located at just the turn in the road which suits each the best.

The elipse comprises choice high view lots, with frontages of 100 to 125 feet and depth of 145 feet. These will be offered as the cream of Rossmoyne, paved boulevards surrounding them.

In order to direct the homeseeker to Rossmoyne, J. S. Shultz, who designed the Egyptian temple administration building, has painted signs bearing the Sphinx, depicted

SPARR HEIGHTS CO. MOVES TO NEW HOME

The handsome community center building at Sparr Heights is now practically completed and plans are under way for its dedication in the near future. It is of the Spanish-Moorish type of architecture, and is located near the center of the tract, facing Verdugo road, upon Tujunga boulevard.

Space for the offices of the company were reserved in the gift to the city of Glendale made at the laying of the corner stone, and accordinly Barnum - Walters have removed their main offices from Verdugo road to their handsome and commodious quarters in the new building, and are at home there to their friends and clients.

The affairs of the Sparr Heights tract are prospering and on every hand are seen evidences of activity and preparation for yet greater things in the near future. The month of June will witness some important structures begun and others completed. The interest in the property grows, and inquiries are being received daily from near and far.

The report of the county of Los Angeles concerning housing conditions, tract platting and building, has created much comment among buyers. In some quarters the impression had prevailed that the lots platted and offered for sale were far in excess of the demand, but when it was learned from an authoritative source that only ninety-two thousand lots had been opened to the market and that one hundred thousand houses had been built in Los Angeles county during the current year, home-seekers began to realize that the real estate offerings, large as they appear, are not yet equal to the annual demand for homes in this county; they also began to understand that their opportunity to buy is NOW, for with the number of tourists pouring in that we have today, the choicest locations will all soon be privately acquired.

The prediction is now being authoritatively made that Los Angeles will be the largest city numerically and the most important industrially in the whole world. It is already the largest exporter of oil and with raw materials available of every sort, climate favorable for wage earners to enjoy life, port facilities developable, the growth of the city is bound to be phenomenal. Few who have lived here a long time realize what is being done around us. The city itself is now the fifth in population in the country, and before the year closes will have more than a million people.

Thus those who love the quiet of the country, who desire to escape the crowd, to enjoy the city benefits without its handicaps, are looking to scenic locations, and Sparr Heights offers them unequalled position for transit and joyment, beauty of view, present advantages and future prospects that are unequalled. Great as has been the success of the developers of the tract, the next few months promise to be phenomenal, and in their new offices in the community center building the Barnum-Walters Co. is fully equipped to handle its great and increasing volume of business.

BEST SAND FOR CONCRETE IS STUDY

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, June 8.—Row after row of little glass bottles, filled with sand and carefully filed away in glass-covered cabinets is a part of the technical "library" at the Structural Materials Research Laboratory at Lewis Institute in Chicago. It is probably the only collection of its kind in existence, and the information contained on the labels of the bottles gives an interesting insight into the part that science is playing in modern industrial undertakings.

This "sand library" was started ten years ago, and specimens have been added from time to time until there are more than 2800 different bottles of sand in the collection. The specimens come from every state in the union and from Canada, Cuba, Mexico and other foreign countries.

Each sample has been carefully tested, and the results of the test are kept in the files. They include the source of the specimen, the grading, silt content and the results of the colorimetric test for organic impurities. In most instances mortar and concrete tests also have been made. The reasons for the tests were to ascertain the suitability of the various sands for concrete and mortar work.

The experiments with the various sands were undertaken at the laboratory as a part of the work of ascertaining methods that will assist the concrete user in obtaining the best results in the use of the material.

COVERED WAGON IS FILMED IN GLENDALE

"The Covered Wagon" came close to home as the saying is, when several scenes were taken at Suburban Heights, the tract of the Suburban Realty company, located near Brand's Castle.

Members of the cast expressed the highest admiration for the surroundings, and several sales were made to those who found that being "out on location" meant to really to locate, under the right circumstances.

The wonders of locations near Glendale had penetrated the inquiring Hollywood circles, where it is said that everything is known about everyone and everything in all the rest of the west, and so it was that Suburban Heights was chosen as the spot for the correct filming of portions of the screen success.

Interest in Suburban Heights is continuing at a high pitch among home seekers, and many lots were sold during the past week, with many more prospects in view. After his trip to Yosemite, where he enjoyed a two-days' rest, Arthur R. Johnson, sales manager for the Suburban Realty company, has returned with renewed vigor to the field, and is adopting a program to put Suburban Heights on the "sold out" list within a very few weeks.

This firm is also doing an active business in South Brand property. Several deals are pending at the present time, and with the large number of new business firms permanently locating in the southern section of the business district, Mr. Johnson is confident that the next few months will show a great change in the aspects of South Brand.

AUSTRIAN NATIONAL BANK APPOINTS FOREIGN ADVISOR

[By Associated Press]

VIENNA, June 9.—The National Assembly has approved the appointment of a foreign advisor to the Austrian National Bank. There was considerable opposition to the measure by the Social Democrats.

It is predicted that the coming of this foreigner will be followed by other foreigners to take charge of the federal railroads, the tobacco monopoly, and the department of posts and telegraphs.

Many a man has perished in trying to collect the living he thought the world owed him.

"The End of the Trail" at Suburban Heights

"The Covered Wagon" cast now at Grauman's Hollywood Theatre were greatly impressed with the surroundings, while shooting scenes at the Suburban Realty Company subdivision.

A WONDERFUL NEW HILLSIDE HOME TRACT HAS JUST BEEN OPENED HERE; EACH HOMESITE HAS SCENIC OUTLOOK

Acacia Hills Subdivision Has Many Features That Are All Its Own—Its Lots Are Large, Its Utilities Could Not Be Improved Upon; It Is Ideal

The Acacia Hills Syndicate, of which Ferd Goodfellow is the active manager, announces the opening of a choice residential subdivision of hillside home-sites, that promises to be a popular favorite, both on account of its location and its surroundings.

The beautiful hill which has been platted into lots is surrounded by highly improved property and is to have finely graded and finished roadways winding to its summit, and the sites are so planned that there is no obscuration of the view possible, and the frontage of the lots is exceptionally wide, in most cases being sixty feet. Along the roadways, to the top of the hill, the yellow-flowering acacia florabundi is to be planted at intervals of 20 feet, producing one of the most unique and lovely effects. This tree is admirably suited to the purpose, for it is rather low-growing and bouquet-like in the spread of its branches, and while ornamenting the slopes of the tract, will never shut out the view, as many other trees would do.

The syndicate has installed all city utilities upon its property, and these will be available to purchasers and included in the price of the lots.

That price is a feature of this subdivision which deserves further mention. Its organizers have watched the development of hillside and other residential tracts in Los Angeles, Glendale and surrounding communities, and has concluded that in most cases the price of hill-side home sites seems to have been set for purchase by people of large means, and, in most cases the restrictions follow the land-price and are prohibitive to those who wish to build inexpensive houses.

While there is no objection to anyone building as pretentious and expensive a house as he desires upon this property, and it is as appropriate for such homes as any highly restricted tract, the fact is that a huge and ostentatious house is as often a white elephant as it is a "joy forever," and an inexpensive house may be made as artistic and architecturally excellent as a palace. The price of the lots is lower by fifty per cent, than that which the syndicate would be justified in asking, but the idea behind the subdivision is to provide home-sites that are within the reach of the modest pocket-book.

The Acacia Hills Tract is the nearest to Los Angeles of all Glendale's subdivisions, only about 20 minutes by automobile from Fifth and Spring streets and is close to stores and markets which supply domestic needs and but one block from public transportation. This does not mean much to the man with two or three automobiles for the use of his family, most of whose members have nothing to do to occupy their time, but it is a decided factor in the calculations of the man with only one automobile, and that in use perhaps for his business needs six days in the week. It means that his family is not isolated from community, school and social activities, though they have every advantage of country life.

One might justly ask "what are the advantages" nowadays of "the country within the city?" The management of Acacia Hills would answer by suggesting that the inquirer drive through its tract, pausing now and then to look across the wide lovely valley of the Verdugos and the San Fernando spread out below him, at the tree-embowered homes of Glendale lying at the foot of the eminence, at the wave upon wave of encircling green foot-hills rising to the distant lofty mountains, and then may be understood, the lure of the beauty of a landscape of which the lover of nature can never weary.

With the inspiration of this beauty always before his eyes, the home-maker has a sense of unity with it and freedom from the hampering effects of city crowding that can only be achieved by such isolation. To many persons "isolation" means loneliness, the absence of human association, the seclusion of solitude. That is not what is meant by "the country within the city." Here the isolation is that of separation from the annoyances of crowds and the freedom of individual life. It means in Acacia Hills the joy of contact with nature in her loviest aspect, and at the same time human contact at will, easily available and congenial.

The value of the Acacia Hills property is intrinsic, and bound to increase as time passes. All hillside property is being eagerly acquired by home builders, and this is the only tract of superior quality, in the neighborhood of Hollywood, Glendale or Los Angeles where the price is within reach of the man of moderate means, the wage-earner of taste and discrimination and the salaried man who appreciates the benefits of a real home. In a few years hill-side sites will not be available at any price, and the wise home builder is beginning to realize that fact. No matter how choice a lot on level land may be, or what the view from it is now, in the course of the development of the neighborhood that view will be obstructed, and as the community grows, the possibility of the encroachment of local business is always present.

This can never happen on Acacia Hills. Every house built upon the tract will add to the beauty of the neighborhood without interfering with the outlook of another, and when around these homes there are flowers, shrubs and trees that home-lovers always plant and cherish, it will be, with its perenially flowering street trees, a beauty spot unique in hill-site tracts.

The aproach to Acacia Hills is by Glendale boulevard or Brand boulevard to Palmer street, thence east to the tract, or by Adams street to Palmer, thence east one block. The public is invited to visit the new subdivision and see for itself its attractions.

400,000 EARN LIVING IN S. F.

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 9.—A total of 204,724 men and 60,032 women were gainfully employed in San Francisco in 1920, according to statistical data just completed here by the Chamber of Commerce. The total, 265,656, was 30 per cent of the total population more than 10 years of age, the chamber stated. The number of workers in San Francisco today is estimated at approximately 400,000.

Manufacturing and mechanical industries claim the largest group with a total of 71,000 men and 11,136 women. Trades required 35,389 men and 7,637 women. Clerical workers totalled 20,370 men and 13,934 women. Workers engaged in "extraction of minerals" formed the smallest unit, there being 11,224 men and five women. In the professional field there were 11,534 men and 8,476 women, of which 2,662 were teachers and 2,546 nurses, the balance being divided among dentists, doctors, lawyers, etc.

—A beautiful trip up to and over the mountains through Montrose, Tujunga, Sunland and down into Rainbow Valley, where lots with all improvements and club privileges are being sold for $198, $298, $389—$10 monthly payments.

—Busses will leave Rainbow Valley Office in Glendale, Brand Blvd. and Colorado Street at 9 a. m., 11 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 4 p. m. SUNDAY.

RAINBOW VALLEY HOME GIVEN AWAY

There is some fortunate person in this vicinity who is going to discover some Sunday in the near future that he has become the owner of a fine, modern mountain bungalow, all through the particular generosity of fate, who placed the ticket bearing the lucky number in his possession.

In explanation of this fact, the subdividers of Rainbow Valley announces that all those who registered at the Rainbow Valley booth at the exposition, and those who have registered since, will soon be sent numbers entitling them to a chance in the drawing, which will take place at the Rainbow Valley subdivision, 11 miles north of Glendale.

The date for this drawing has not yet been decided, and registrations may still be made at the Rainbow Valley office, at the corner of Colorado and Brand boulevard. The person to win this bungalow will be one of those present at the tract at the time the number is drawn, as the chances have been so arranged that only one ticket will be given, and only those numbers shown at the tract on the day of the drawing will be included.

The drawing of the lucky number will be the first of a chain of pleasant events for the one to claim ownership. The subdividers will allow this person to choose the site for his cabin, from any of the lots in the valley. This offers a wide range of locations from which to choose, and no matter which type of lot is preferred, it is certain that one of the lots in the tract will fill the requirements of the most fastidious.

To this favorite of fate, the plan of the bungalow will be explained. It is to contain five rooms, and will be modern in every detail. The log cabin style which has been adopted will fit particularly well into the scenic surroundings.

Ownership of this bungalow and lot will entitle the holder to a membership in the community club, with share in the community center and park. It is planned that construction is to start on this community center in two weeks. A community center building is to be erected in the center of the 7½ acres reserved in the central part of the tract for the community center. A swimming pool, dance pavilion tennis courts, children's playground, and camping sites with outdoor fireplaces for the picnickers are some of the attractive features planned for this center.

A model stone mountain cabin has been erected and furnished, and will be shown to those who visit Rainbow Valley. This cabin, it will be shown, can be constructed out of the stone to be found in the valley, and its cost will not exceed two or three hundred dollars, although water rights accompany each lot, and water will be piped to the property, the outdoor camp demands a stream to make it complete.

Proposed Community Center to be erected at Rainbow Valley.

sell, the club rights go to the new owner.

In anticipation of the fact that many who buy in Rainbow Valley will desire to reserve their property in its rustic beauty as a place for the outing, the subdividers have undertaken to build an outdoor fireplace on each lot, where the barbecue and camp coffee can furnish material delight to the inveterate outdoor man and woman.

Preparations are being made to take a large number to the tract by bus Sunday. Four different contingents will be conducted to Rainbow Valley, the schedule announced being 9 and 11 o'clock in the morning, and 1:30 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Captain Stradling, general manager of the Rainbow Valley real estate firm, gave the assurance this morning that even though the proposed Tujunga dam is constructed, there will be some water left in the stream at all times. This is one of the desirable featuress of Rainbow Valley for the week-end trip, for

MISTLETOE KILLS WESTERN PINE

Western yellow pine is subject to severe injury by mistletoe, and the damage to the forest caused by the insidious and destructive action of this pest presents one of the important forestry problems in the Southwest, says the United State department of agriculture, in its new bulletin entitled "The Western Yellow Pine Mistletoe."

This booklet—Deparement Bulletin 1112—has just been printed and is now available for free distribution by the department of agriculture as long as the supply lasts, after which it may be secured from the superintendent of documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 15 cents a copy.

The new bulletin presents the results of sudies conducted during the last 12 years and is one of the important works on tree diseases published by the department of agriculture. Clarence F. Korstian of the Appalachian forest experiment station of the Forest Service, and W. H. Long of the office of investigatoins in forest pathology of the bureau of plant industry, are the joint authors of the booklet.

Pest Checks Rate of Growth

In discussing the effect of the western pine mistletoe—the Razoumofskya cryptopoda—on the growth of the host, the booklet states that a marked decrease in the rate of growth is noted which continues until the parasite causes the death of the infected tree. The merchantability of the timber from the infected trees is also adversely affected by the pest.

The booklet further states that the quantity and quality of the seed produced by trees infected with mistletoe is below that of normal, healthy trees, and that heavily infected trees are practically worthless for seed production and should not be left as seed trees.

Trees of all ages are subject to mistletoe infection provided the seeds of the parasite fall on parts of the tree not protected by the bark. Young seelings and saplings usually die comparatively soon after becoming severely infected, while older trees remain alive for a much longer time.

Disease Is Slow But Sure

In mentioning the silvicultural aspects of mistletoe infection, the bulletin states that "mistletoe injury presents one of the most serious phases of this silvicultural problem. The parasite may be slow in effecting its injury but it is unquestionably sure."

Measures for controlling the parasitic disease are very thoroughly discussed and the conclusion is reached that the cutting of mistletoe-infected trees is the only practical method of control. Mistletoe is more susceptible to control measures than many fungi, the bulletin states. Infection is confined to the aerial parts of the host and the pest is killed with the death of its host.

Wonderful Tract Offers Peace and Rest to Buyer

in the cold grey stone and ironical smile that has puzzled the wayfarer along the Nile for centuries. These will be seen along all of the main boulevards leading to Rossmoyne.

In two weeks this Egyptian building is to be completed to a point where the subdividers will move their offices there. As soon as the main structure is completed, J. S. Shultz will depict the history of the Verdugos in characteristic Egyptian fashion, through figures and hieroglyphics. Mr. Shultz also painted the reproduction of this temple which formed the Haddock-Nibley Co. booth at the exposition.

Special opening ceremonies are to be held at this temple when it is officially opened. Being the first of its kind to be located in southern California, it has attracted wide attention, and will doubtless be visited by a large number on the occasion of the opening. Suffice, to say, that although the styles of King Tut were not consulted in the construction of the building, the art of the period of Rameses III having been chosen, modern creations relative to the excavated king will not be forgotten in the dedication services.

Although the work of subdividing is now under way, no appreciable interference is noticed in the fruit packing industry. Oranges and apricots are being taken from the trees in great quantities. The old packing house is still in use, but after this apricot season, it is to be torn down.

IMPORTANCE TO CORRECT MIXTURE

It is a fact that unless the fuel charge is of the correct proportions and is ignited properly, all the symptoms of over-oiling will appear. Before a car reported to be pumping oil is torn down for expensive repairs, the carburetor adjustment should be carefully checked, the valve lifters given the correct clearance and the spark plug points set to the proper gap.

It is surprising how many reported cases of oil-pumping, particularly in new and recently overhauled cars, can be corrected in this way. A clean burning charge consumes the oil without trouble, while incomplete combustion always leads to trouble.—Automobile Digest.

REMOVING STUDS

A device to remove studs without marring the threads can be made from a short piece of cold rolled steel. A portion on each side is filed flat to fit a wrench and it is drilled and threaded to fit the stud to be removed. The device is screwed onto the projecting end of the stud and a cap screw is threaded into the other end to jam the stud, which permits the removal of the stud when a wrench is applied to the flats of the tool.—Automobile Digest.

Drive up Glendale Avenue to where it widens into the front entrance of ROSSMOYNE. Note the extensive improvements going in and then drive in and over the winding roadways now being laid out among the oranges, liveoaks and sycamores.

ROSSMOYNE is going to be a great residential Park, emphasized by homse of quality and distinction.

It will be distinctively a community of individual homes. There will be no apartment houses, no duplexes; just a homing place among neighbors of desirable character, with restrictions adequate to maintain its proper tone.

WHY NOT MAKE your selection of a homesite here, where you will always have the charm of the woodland, with the convenience of the city?

Confidence vs. Criticism

Behind every transaction between customer and merchant, confidence is a mighty factor. It is a tremendous asset to the merchant, a satisfaction to the customer. It is a safeguard, too, against criticism. Every Glendale merhant is striving for this confidence on the part of the public. It is to him a vital point in his business conduct.

It is won by earnest effort to please patrons, courtesy, consideration, fairness. It comes through honest advertising, the offering of goods measuring up to the standard, the avoidance of criticism, the settlement of disputes when they arise, in an equitable manner. It is as great a selling point as any. It is the quickest means of building an institution, the strongest and the best—and the merchants of Glendale, realizing this, are striving in every way to merit this confidence of the people.

So, in an endeavor to impress this confidence upon the people of this community, the merchants of Glendale evolved the idea of Monday Bargain Day, when there would be set forth bargains in various lines of merchandise that would still further instill that feeling of confidence that it is hoped will become a part of the entire business atmosphere in Glendale.

RIGHT-OF-WAY RULE CHANGED

[By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—A new interpretation of the law dealing with the right-of-way at street intersections was recently handed down by the California appellate court, reversing a judgment by the superior court of San Francisco.

In the case of Vickerson vs. Standard Automobile Sales company the court held that the vehicle approaching from the right has the clear right-of-way, unless the one approaching from the left is nearer the point where the collision would occur. Where the intersection is square, that is, where the two intersecting streets are of the same width, the vehicle from the right would have the right-of-way, unless the other had passed the center of the intersection before the former entered the intersection, or passed the curbstone.

WEBB'S JOINS IN BIG SHOPPING CAMPAIGN

Invites Patrons to Investigate Special Offers for Monday Buying

Joining with the other merchants who have united their efforts toward the success of Monday as the big shopping day of the week, the H. S. Webb department store is boosting this week for the better business and better interest of the city of Glendale.

"We are placing ourselves in line with the other merchants in this campaign because we believe it to be a good thing for all," said D. L. Ludwig, advertising manager of the Webb department store, which is now located in the fine new store at Wilson and Brand boulevard.

The shopper who is interested in special offers in millinery, ready-to-wear, shoes, wash dresses, domestics and ginghams, will find these announced at attractive prices in the shopping section. As the shopping campaign is a get-acquainted campaign as well as a commercial one for mutual benefit, those who have not visited Webb's new store, are invited to investigate the offers made for Monday.

EAGLE ROCK NEWS

OFFICE HOURS ARE ESTABLISHED BY C. OF C.

Donnell Montgomery, secretary of the Eagle Rock chamber of commerce, will be in the chamber of commerce headquarters at the city hall from 1 to 2 o'clock, every day. He has established this as his regular office hour temporarily, and is in hopes as soon as all the chamber of commerce business is lined up in routine, to be able to devote more time inside. He will be at leisure to discuss any business to be taken up by the chamber of commerce during the hour which he has set, for the present time.

NOTES ON THE CHURCH SERVICES

The graduating class of Occidental college will be in charge of the evening services at the Presbyterian church Sunday. Children's day will be observed with special programs in the Sunday school at 10:30.

Mrs. G. A. Arbogast, Sunday school superintendent, will have charge of the Children's day program at the Congregational church. The children have arranged special numbers for the program, which is to begin at 10:00 and which will insure a large audience of parents and friends. The boys and girls will preach the sermon as morning church services and Sunday school will be combined.

Through a schedule mistake, it was announced that another Near East film would be shown at the Congregational church Sunday evening. E. Morgan Isaacs, pastor, will make the customary evening address instead, and Mrs. M. Q. Widdows, who, as a professional leader has been identified with community service work in Glendale with notable success for some time, will lead the singing, accompanied at the piano by Samuel B. McKee.

The Children's day program at the Methodist church will begin at 11 o'clock. E. J. Bradner will give a short illustrated sermon on "Willie and Sam on Sunday." Several babies will be presented for baptism. The offering will go to help poor students through college. Morning church and Sunday school will be combined.

The morning sermon at the Church of Christ will be "A New Heart," and the evening sermon, "Christ the Head of the Church."

UNION OIL CO. BUILDING NEW OIL STATION HERE

DORMITORY WILL BE BUILT FOR FIREMEN

Chief Scott, of the Los Angeles fire department, with Los Angeles architects, has been looking over the city hall here, with regard to the housing facilities for the firemen. There are now seven men on each shift, and the present sleeping quarters are quite inadequate.

Plans are under way to erect a dormitory on the lot at the rear of the city hall which will be large enough to accomodate the men who will be required for the service in this section.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young have returned from an interesting tour of the old California missions. They visited Romona's home, which is still as it was in the old days, and spent a few days at Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cox are vacationing at Gilman Hot Springs, San Jacinto. Before returning to Eagle Rock they will spend some time in Elsinore.

Mrs. Morgan Marmaduke, of Rock Glen avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Coles of Los Angeles with an informal dinner party at the Marmaduke residence last night.

BLOWOUTS FROM BRUISED TIRES

Tires frequently do not blow out at the time they are injured. Often they run for several hundred or even for a thousand miles after being seriously bruised. The cotton fibers in the ruptured carcass snap gradually, one by one. This breaking continues to weaken the tire until the final result is a blowout.

FAST EIGHT-WHEEL TRUCK

Designed for fast freight service, an eight-wheel motor truck is operated in San Diego, with a speed of 35 miles an hour. The chassis is built with four rear driving wheels and four front steering wheels.

Of a total of $1,803,728,219 invested in factories in Detroit, Mich., $1,160,000,000 is invested in the automobile industry.

BANKERS CAUTION AGAINST INFLATION

By J. H. PUELICHER
President the American Bankers Association

A recent meeting of the Executive Council of the American Bankers Association, attended as it was by representative bankers from every state in the Union, afforded an excellent opportunity to get a composite view of the business situation in the nation as a whole.

J. H. Puelicher

Representatives of agriculture were present at the meeting. They made it clear that the upward trend of affairs in business had not yet reached the farmer and that his position of having to pay a relatively larger price for what he purchases as compared with that received for what he sells should be given the most thoughtful consideration.

There were also present men fresh from observing and studying conditions in Europe. While they lent encouragement to the belief that European affairs are slowly—very slowly—righting themselves, there is in the feeling generally expressed by American bankers a distinct note of caution.

Questions of the Hour

One hears the questions everywhere asked: "Are we going to permit American affairs to ride again into a situation of extreme inflation, which will, as we all know, be followed by another period of depression? Had we not better keep business on a normal keel by not going too rapidly? Should not the banker be sounding a note of warning to business men generally to keep their affairs well in hand?"

The charts indicating the trend of business show that we are approaching the high point which followed the war. This should be the signal to the conservative business man that expansion must be definitely controlled and that reasonable conservatism should be the order of the day.

To many this may appear the pessimism of the banker, but let me say that the banker is in a position to keep his finger on the pulse of our economic situation, and when there is such a consensus on the part of many bankers that we are passing the safety point and that we are riding into another period of inflation such opinion should not be looked upon as pessimism, but rather as the advice of those whose business can prosper only as there is general prosperity.

The banking situation in America is sound and can only be harmed by undue credit expansion. The banker should see that expansion does not again gain the headway that led us into trouble before, and the business man should do everything possible to support the banker, thus avoiding another period of costly deflation.

MUST GIVE BEST TO RECEIVE BEST

Chas. McDuffee Endorses Monday Shopping Campaign as Choice Medium

"Give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you," is the policy of Charles McDuffee, of the McDuffee's Men's store on Broadway at Maryland.

That is why Mr. McDuffee is a firm supporter of the Monday shopping campaign, for it affords an opportunity for the merchant to offer the best he has in the best manner. Among the many merchants of Glendale who have entered this comprehensive campaign, Mr. McDuffee is an enthusiastic booster, and says that while it is costing money to pioneer the way, it will be worthwhile in the future, to an even greater extent than at present.

Mr. McDuffee carries a line of standard men's shoes, shirts, underwear, hosiery and hats, and invites the Monday shopper to visit his men's store and "get acquainted with our methods of giving value for value received."

"The process of building a permanent business is a slow one," said Mr. McDuffee, "and all we ask is enough legitimate profit to carry on while building up our trade."

SHOP MONDAY AND FIND FURNITURE VALUES

"We are going into the Monday Shopping Campaign stronger than before," states Royal Sawtelle of the New England Furniture company, 229-31 South Brand boulevard. "It is a campaign that will benefit all who enter it, the buyer above everyone else."

At the New England Monday the housewife will find an attractive offer in sets of dining room tables and chairs in solid walnut, furnished in the new two-tone effects. These sets are offered in different tones of seats, blue, brown and fine tapestry, so that the housewife will experience little trouble in matching the furniture with the interior finish of her dining room.

H. G. Myers, formerly with John Wanamaker in New York, and recently with Barker Bros., of Los Angeles, is now associated with the New England Furniture company. He is to have complete charge of the contract department, and will conduct the department for the furnishing of flats and apartment houses. Mr. Meyer, through his wide experience, will be in a position to offer suggestions on interior decorating and arrangement of the furniture to the best advantage.

METEOR "MINE" BEING WORKED

[By Associated Press]

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 9.—Efforts have been resumed to find the lost meteorite of Meteor mountain, 22 miles west of Winslow, Arizona, in Coconino county.

In the side of Meteor mountain is a cavity 4400 feet in diameter and from 600 to 700 feet in depth, and somewhere beneath the surface several thousand tons of ore containing platinum, nickel and other precious metals are believed to be concealed.

Fragments of the meteor, found on the sides of the hole and scattered near it have shown the presence of these metals when assayed.

Attempts to find the meteor have been made at intervals for many years by drilling into the bottom of the cavity. Recently geologists who have made a study of the place have expressed the opinion that the meteor, believed to be the largest that ever fell within the state, may have slipped off to one side after reaching a depth of 600 to 800 feet due to some peculiar formation of the earth's strata.

As a result the company owning the mining claim sank a drill on the south rim of the crater and the drill, at a depth of 1200 feet, became lodged in a solid substance and efforts to withdraw it have failed. Plans are now being made to sink a shaft 600 feet south of the cavity.

MONDAY SHOPPING MAKES DULL DAY THE BUSY DAY

This Is Comment Made by Official of Piano Exchange

"The Monday Shopping Campaign has changed the first of the week to the busiest, instead of the dullest days, in business, for the Piano Exchange," said Frank E. Brown, secretary of the Piano Exchange, Inc., of California, whose establishment is located at 112 West Broadway.

"Prior to instituting this drive for Monday shopping, the first of the week meant a small business, but since the campaign was started, we are selling more pianos the first part of the week than during the later part."

The Piano Exchange has proved to be the music establishment that a large class of people here have desired. Handling both new and second hand pianos, this firm is ready to supply any wants of their customers in this line.

The Piano Exchange, which carries a reputation of years in the musical instrument business, but is among the new business houses in Glendale, forms a clearing house for all grades and all makes of pianos. In the large cities and suburbs, the constant and ever-increasing changes of the home life throw on the market and in the warehouses, to be disposed of later, thousands of pianos, all makes, styles, grades. The Piano Exchange appraises these instruments at a fair value, passes them through a first class shop, removing all imperfections and then offers them to the buying public at about one-half the original purchase price, providing they are only slightly used, and would pass for new, and if older and of less value, at a correspondingly lower price.

SAFETY FIRST

Never follow another car too closely when about to cross a railroad track. The driver of the car ahead may not take the simple precaution of looking to see whether the coast is clear, and he may just get over in time.

AUTOMOBILE FIRE TRUCKS

One hundred and twenty-six foreign cities are planning equipment of automobile fire fighting apparatus. Ninety-five of the cities have asked American manufacturers to enter bids on motorized equipment.

BOYS GO FOR NIGHT HIKE

Scoutmaster Thomas Takes Scouts Up Mt. Verdugo

Boy Scouts of troop 2, accompanied by Scoutmaster E. B. Thomas, principal of the John Muir school, went for an evening hike up Mount Verdugo, last night. The boys studied for the nature test, part of which is concerned with the observation of the stars. The scoutmaster had the boys point out the several constellations of which they had read.

The geography of the mountain side was another part of the course of study in which the boys were interested on the hike. They began climbing the mountain side at 7:30 o'clock and returned to Burbank at 10 o'clock, after scaling half way up the mountain side. The boys who went on the hike were George and, Will Bray, Harold Mitey, Donald Catlin, Jerry Blakeman, Norman Sheete and John Curry.

Twenty-two girls and twelve boys will have completed 12 years of learning and discipline and will be ready to step forth to set the world afire with their flaming torches of idealism.

Thirty-four will be ready to commence on a new phase of life when they put into practice the things which they have so laboriously, at times, accumulated.

Prizes will be given by the Parent-Teacher association and by the Women's club for scholarship.

In telling of the future goals, the first choice showed a wide range, three wanting to be artists, two teachers, two doctors, two nurses, three engineers, one a court interpeter, one an aero engineer, one a detective, two private secretaries, and social service work interested many of the girls.

DORTS ATTEND SCHOOL REUNION

Head of City Water Department Renews Old Friendships

Earl Dort, head of the city water and light department, and Mrs. Dort and two children, attended the second annual reunion of Tustin school mates, today. The reunion was held at the Orange county park, just out of Tustin.

Pupils of the principal of the Tustin school, J. J. Zielian, met for the first time since last year, since graduation from school nearly 20 years ago. They enjoyed meeting old classmates and hearing of their progress so much that they voted to make it an annual affair to be held during the closing days of school.

Mr. Dort was unable to go last year so he anticipated the reunion today with great pleasure, especially since he could present his charming wife and his two children, wherewith to arouse the admiration of his old classmates.

Notification to the hundreds of pupils were sent out by J. A. Jerome, auditor of Orange county.

Mr. and Mrs. Dort and children will visit a few days with relatives in Tustin before returning to Burbank.
